HOXSEY IN A RETURN AIR TRIP

INTERNATIONAL AVIATION FIELD, Belmont Park, N. Y., Oct 28.—Battling for an hour against a twenty-mile wind, Arch Hoxsey flew back to-day to the aviation field from Brentwood, L. I., where he was dumped by a gale yesterday, and was greeted by thundering cheers from the Americans who had gathered to watch the aviation contests.

Coming in from the Northeast at a height of 300 feet he circled the track and landed lightly in front of the Wright hangar. The machine showed no ill effects from the perilous journey of yesterday, when Hoxsey was caught by a gale above the clouds and swept twenty-five miles away. He said however, that he feared the aeroplane had been strained by the tempestuous voyage and the mechanicians immediately overhauled the machine.

Ralph Johnstone, who landed on Middle Island, fifty-five miles distant, swept by the same gale which caught Hoxsey, was expected to fly back later in the afternoon. The judges announced that as soon as Johnstone returned they would make an examination of his two barographs and his aneroid barometer. After his flight Johnstone declared that all three instruments record the fact that he went up 6,000 feet, and he claimed the new American altitude record.

During one lull in the gale to-day Grahame-White and Leblanc in their biplane-type Blériot monoplanes made short speed practice flights averaging about a mile a minute.

Leblanc's flight was one of the most thrilling yet made by a French flyer at the meet. The weather conditions were not conducive to safe air sailing, but the fearless aviator seemed not to mind this. Turning loose his motor he greeted with bends his machine to a mile-a-minute gait, while the whirl of the wind against the rushing machine sounded with the hum of the motors. The spectators marveled at the feat as Leblanc negotiated the first pylon with ease.

His monoplane swept gracefully around the tower while the flags above it were whipped out straight in the wind. It was feared that the stiff breeze would dash the daring Frenchman against the pylon he he came into the straight away course the flyer evidently gave his motor a little more fuel for the machine began to bob a little and climbed in speed.

The machine seemed to shoot by the grand stand so intense was the speed. Spectators were wildly applauding. After

TEACHERS HEAR STRONG PAPERS AT CONVENTION

Red-hot statements from the speakers who addressed between 2,500 and 3,000 teachers who filled Tremont Temple and Lorimer Halls to-day at the annual meeting of the Middlesex County Teachers' Association, to the effect that the law was declining because it had mixed in politics and sold itself to the corporations rather than protect the poor, that the ministry had declined because it wandered about in a fog of indecision and that the whole system of high school education was wrong, much too bookish, caused a big sensation in the great gatherings.

One of the speakers who advocated fresh air as a help to clear thinking declared that the hot air used in heating many of our American houses was the cause of many of the divorces that startle the country.

Before many years it was predicted that boys and girls would go to school at fourteen just long enough to get the layout of the day's work and then go to factories and stores, and so on, and do the actual work.

Teaching as Profession.

The chief speaker in Lorimer Hall was Professor Walter Ballou Jacobs of Brown University. He spoke to the high school teachers. His subject was "Teaching a Profession?" In the course of his speech he said:

"Law and the ministry have declined steadily. Law has declined because it has made use of politics to secure its ends. It has also declined because it defends corporations rather than protect the interests of the people.

"The ministry seems lost in a fog of uncertainty as to specialized knowledge. While its devotion is full and superb its personnel is in a state of indecision."

Dr. David Sanford, commissioner of education in Massachusetts, made a strong attack on the high school system. He declared that the education given to the pupils was entirely too bookish. He asserted that no allowance at all was made for the boys and girls who are compelled to leave school and go to work at sixteen.

Schools Too Bookish.

"The idea that vocational education can be obtained from books," said Mr. Sanford, "is all wrong. The high schools must take cognizance of this situation if they would keep step with the progress of the times. Many boys and girls now at work at fourteen. They are not properly fitted to face the world, an attitude that at the age of twenty-five they find their earning capacity from 50 to 75 cent. below what it should be.

"We have been following a false standard. A bookish course in agriculture would be just as sensible as many courses that are done in our high schools."

W. E. Watt of Chicago in his address of fresh air said:

"Hot air in many of our American buildings is responsible for many divorce suits."

C. A. Prosser, deputy commissioner of schools in this State, made an attack upon the courses of study similar to that of Mr. Sanford.

FOSS SAYS: "WE WILL WIN"

EUGENE N. FOSS

WILLIAMSTOWN STATION, Mass., Oct. 28.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In the Berkshires, as on Cape Cod, it has been the story of the Fourteenth District fight all over again, and then some. The people are thoroughly aroused. They wait only for the opening of the polls to strike back at those who have been false to them. I have a message from the Cape and from the Hills for the people of Greater Boston. I shall deliver it at noon to-morrow in Faneuil Hall, and I invite everybody to come and hear it. We are going to win!

FOSS MAKES PLEA FOR AN INCOME TAX

NORTHAMPTON, Oct. 28.—The income tax has become an issue in the State campaign second only to the high cost of living.

"I have always favored a tax on incomes," Congressman Foss said to-day to the BOSTON AMERICAN correspondent, "and I has pleased me very much on this trip to find that the Democratic and the Progressive Republicans of Western Massachusetts are strong for such a tax.

"And, as I said yesterday afternoon in the Miller House at Great Barrington, in answer to Mr. Herbert C. Joyner of that town, I am no recent convert to the income tax. Five years ago, in an address before the Canadian Club, I made it clear that, in my opinion, the income tax is not only fair, but just and equitable. The wealthy men of the United States are not wearing their fair share of the burdens of government. They ought to be assumed of their opposition to this tax, but the fact is that they have been making use of their control of the Republican party to kill off a tax on incomes."

Joyner Wants to Know.

Herbert C. Joyner, who stood up in the hotel parlor at Great Barrington to ask Mr. Foss how about the income tax plank, is a Democrat of prestige and past performances in the Berkshires. Mr. Joyner is a lawyer, tall, spare and with hair and moustache of snow white.

He said he hoped he wasn't dropping a firebrand into the very harmonious atmosphere of Berkshire Democrats, but he allowed that the income tax was a burning issue around there and he wanted to know if the candidate was in full sympathy with the party in State and Nation.

"I went down to the State House last Winter," Mr. Joyner said, "to argue for a hearing in Massachusetts on the proposed constitutional convention, and I regret to say that I came away with the impression that the Committee on Federal Relations was a stacked committee. I think all the candidates for House and Senate should be made to go on record on this proposition.

"Frank Curtiss of Sheffield, Democrat, was elected to the House last year when

COLD STORM DUE TO REACH HERE TO-NIGHT

Cold, stormy weather is predicted to reach Boston to-night. Storm signals have been ordered along the Atlantic coast from Eastport, Me., down to Jacksonville, Fla. Mariners are prepared for a stiff blow and falling temperature. A heavy frost is due also to-night.

Snow has already visited the West and Northern New England. Dispatches from Rumford, Me., to-day tell of snow, sleet and zeltgens making their debut at the same time.

Lewiston and Auburn, Me., have had their first snowfall of the season. Augusta reports a light snow. It melted as soon as it touched the ground, but it was real snow—what there was of it.

From the West come similar reports. Chicago reports snow and freezing temperature carry to-day. Snow is also reported at Nashua City, Mo., St. Joseph, Mo., and Cleveland, O.

St. Paul, Minn., tells of three inches of snow and Winona, Minn., comes to bat with fifteen.

Even New Orleans says it is getting colder down in the Sunny South.

This cold wave results from a cool high area of great magnitude which started in the Rockies and worked eastward. The weather dispatches said that, as the cold wave moved eastward, the weather would clear in the Atlantic States. Nevertheless storm warnings were ordered along the Atlantic coast, indicating that weather conditions were generally unsettled.

Boston is having ups and downs of temperature. Yesterday afternoon the mercury climbed up to 72, which is reasonable Summer temperature. It fell during the evening. At midnight it was 54 and fall ing.

A heavy gale and snowstorm is raging in Cleveland, O., to-day. The city is covered with snow and a heavy fall was predicted. Storm warnings were flashed over Lake Erie.

KILLED AS SHE WALKS ASLEEP

Sleepwalking led to the death, shortly before dawn to-day, of Mrs. Della Flavin of No. 561 Putnam street, East Boston, while invading the night clothes of the home of Mrs. Margaret O'Connell, at No. 58 Billerica street, she walked or climbed in her sleep out of a third-story window and plunged to the brick sidewalk. She died a little later in the Relief Hospital.

The tragedy is particularly pitiful because Mrs. Flavin, who was only thirty-seven years old, leaves a husband and three boys, aged nine, seven and four.

Her husband is Daniel Flavin. Three sisters of Mrs. Flavin are Mrs. Margaret Driscoll of Lexington and Misses Nellie and Elizabeth Welch of No. 20 Billerica street, both in

HOOK WORM STEMS HINDU IMMIGRATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—The discovery of hook worm among Hindus arriving at this port and the resultant rigid tests for the disease among passengers are having a marked effect on stemming the tide of Oriental immigration. The steamship Asia, which brought 111 Hindus to San Francisco, took 126 back to the Orient when she sailed, most of the returning number having been deported because they were victims of hook worm disease.

VICTORY IS PREDICTED BY GOV. DRAPER

Governor Draper, who already has covered a large part of the State in his private automobile campaign, confided to-day a note of confidence as to the election this result in an exclusive interview which he gave the AMERICAN this afternoon.

"Even if it was desirable," said the Governor" to-day, "I can hardly claim at this date to be a free in political campaigning. During the last five years I have been called on to meet Henry M. Whitney and James H. Vahey, and the manner in which those campaigns were waged is a matter of current political history.

"Let me say now that any worry as to the results of the coming election day has never entered my mind. A year ago Mr. Vahey lost me married, and I will confess that now. As a young man with an attractive personality, and a large amount of direct magnetism, a fluent, yes, an eloquent talker, he was the ideal vote attracting candidate for the minority party, as the vote which he secured showed.

Says All Doubt Is Removed.

"I have no doubt but had he been nominated this year, and the explanation as to why his candidacy was rejected is not a happy one, that I might again had myself at this time in a state of mind that would be pleasant to me a year ago. The nomination of Mr. Foss removed that entirely.

"There is, though, one little worry which I have, not only as a candidate but as a citizen of the State, as one who believes that the obligation to use the franchise is imperative. That is the lack of interest which will apparently appear at the polls. On the stump I have been telling my audiences that how they vote is their own concern, but that not to vote for their own candidates, or to refuse to record the polls had offered a failure to exercise the polls had year at the State election are astonishing. They are a disgrace to the State, to speak plainly, and all who love the State should feel that no such total of abstentions can be published as a result of the tabulation of this year.

Able to Face Facts.

"As to the basis of my confidence, it is because of conditions as I have found them in going through the State. I have acquired during my public life at least a reputation of being able to stand up and face facts. Whether I have won that reputation truly is an immaterial point in this case. As a result of that general

DISCOVER PLOT AGAINST KAISER

BRUSSELS, Oct. 28. The police to-day explained the extraordinary precautions taken in guarding Wilhelm and Empress Augusta Victoria when they left here for Berlin last night by making public the following letter they had received from one of the leaders of the terrorist branch of anarchists:

"Since no one has had the courage to follow up the German autocrat, I have decided to throw a bomb."

All the available secret police were sent out to arrest this writer, who is known to the authorities as a fearless desperate character, but he could not be found. Consequently the most rigorous precautionary measures were taken to guard the departure of the royal guests.

All the windows along the streets, as well as the streets themselves, were cleared and massed with troops, and a cordon of military established a dead line around the railroad station. Other lines of troops guarded the railway tracks for miles outside the city.

FINED FOR THREAT TO KILL POSTMASTER

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—That threats had been made to kill Postmaster E. M. Morgan of New York city was revealed to-day when Morris Phillipsd, a discharged employe of the postoffice, was arraigned in night court charged with making the threats. The prisoner convinced the court that he was in an inveterated condition on the night in question. He was then fined $10.

LOBBY SUIT MAN TELLS HIS STORY

Richard H. Long, the South Framingham shoe manufacturer, who is being sued by Benjamin F. Gibby, the lobbyist, for $10,000 for services Gibby says he rendered in effecting the passage of a bill by the Legislature regulating the sale of machinery by the Shoe Machinery Trust, to-day took the witness stand in his own behalf and admitted that he had given Gibby $1,000 in Gibby's room, as testified by the latter yesterday.

Mr. Long declared that Curley was not in the room and that the money was not turned over to Curley. Gibby yesterday testified that an envelope was given to him by Long in that room in the presence of Curley and that he passed the envelope to Curley.

Court opened at 10 o'clock and every seat in the court room was taken. Mr. Long was called to the witness stand and he was questioned by his lawyer, J. W. McMurrey. Mr. Long testified as follows:

"I gave Mr. Gibby the check for $1,000 for his services on June 12, 1907. About one week later I met him on the street in Boston by accident. He said that he had received the check for $1,000 that I had sent him, and then he told me a story about being in very bad shape financially, that he was heavily in debt, and he spoke about some trouble about a home or place in New Hampshire. He asked me if I wouldn't make a further payment for the services which he rendered. I told him that he had already been paid more than his services were worth. He continued to tell me about his indebtedness and asked me if I wouldn't give him more money."

The witness was further questioned by Mr. Long.

Q—How much did he ask you for at that time? A—He asked me if I wouldn't give him $1,000 more. He said that he had done a great deal of work on the bill and that he needed the money badly. We talked the matter over for some time and I finally agreed to give him $1,000 more. I told him I would send him a check.

Had No Bank Account.

He said he had no bank account and said that he had to have the first check for $1,000 cashed at the Adams House. He wanted me to give him the money in cash rather than in check. The next time I came to Boston I brought the money with me.

Q—I hand you a check and ask you to look at it and say whether it enables you to fix the date when you paid Mr. Gibby the second $1,000. A—Yes, I paid Mr. Gibby the second $1,000 on June 27, 1907.

Mr. Allen called for an explanation of the address contained on the check. He declared it was not clear to him. Judge Morton explained in this manner.

"This is the money paid by Long to Gibby which Gibby yesterday testified was in turn paid to Curley by him.

Q—Tell us further about that transaction? A—I took the money to Mr. Gibby at the factory. After I got to Boston I went to the Adams House and inquired of the clerk the number of Mr. Gibby's room and was told it was 'the home of' Curley. Information received from the clerk, I went to Mr. Gibby's room.

Went to Gibby Alone.

Q—Did you go there alone? A—Yes, I went alone.

Q—Mr. Gibby and Mr. Curley both testified yesterday that they went up to Gibby's room with you from the office. Is that so? A—No, sir, it is untrue.

Q—Did you see Curley in the corridor of the building before you went up to Gibby's room? A—No, sir, I did not.

Q—Did Curley go to Gibby's room with you? A—No, sir, he did not.

Q—Did you see Curley at Young's Hotel before you went to the Adams House that day? A—I did not.

Q—What occurred when you went to Gibby's room in the Adams House? A—I went to his room, saw him, gave him the money and went away. I left Mr. Gibby. I stayed in the room about half a minute and then left. There was not another person else in the room except you and Mr. Gibby so far as you know? A—No, sir.

Did Not See Curley.

Q—Was Mr. John Curley there? A—No, sir.

Q—Did you see Mr. Curley that day? A—I did not.

Q—How did you pay Mr. Gibby? A—I gave him a bill of bills marked $1,000, with a hand written note on it. He took the bills, a bank or two packages of $500 each just as I came from the bank.

Q—Mr. Gibby yesterday testified that you handed him an envelope in his room which he gave to Mr. Curley. Was there any envelope about the money? A—To the best of my recollection there was no envelope about the money.

Q—Did Mr. Gibby at that time say anything about wanting any more money? A—He did not.

Q—Did he say anything in reference to giving money to Curley? A—He did not.

RIOTS IN EXPRESS STRIKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. As a result of widespread disorder in the express helpers' strike at Jersey City, State troops were to-day ordered by Governor Fort of New Jersey, to be held in readiness to act the moment the situation passes beyond the control of the police. There was riot ing at many points in New York to-day.

In the rioting at Jersey City two policemen were badly hurt and are in the hospital to-day.

There was a riot near the American Express Company's stables at Madison avenue and Forty-eighth street, this city, to-day. A strikebreaker was dragged from his wagon and badly beaten. A policeman who came to his rescue was also pounded by the crowd.

When the police removed another strikebreaker they were stoned, but managed to save their man.

Violence was renewed in Jersey City to-day when the strike sympathizers stoned a trolley car in an attempt to maim a strikebreaker. Several women were hurt.

Extra precautions against the recurrence of trouble are to-day being taken both in the city and in New Jersey. All express company offices are under heavy guard.

Traffic Interrupted.

Services was almost halted at both the Grand Central and West Shore stations in this city and to-day the threat of a general strike in an effort to tie up the whole Metropolitan district was made by officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Showing evidences of having been mobbed, an excited squad of men, who said they were guards of the strikebreaking Wells-Fargo Express Company, landed from a ferryboat after having been attacked by a thousand or more strike sympathizers in Jersey City. Surgeons pronounced the injuries of two of the men serious if not fatal.

Fifteen men employed by both the Adams and American Express Companies in New York joined the walkout and the Adams Company's office in Jersey City was also struck. Both the United States and Wells-Fargo companies previously had been involved in the trouble.

Charles Rolford, General Manager of the Adams Express Company, announced that all street deliveries and collections in New York city had been abandoned.

Rioting at Several Points.

As the day wore on the disorders here became serious. Rioting broke out at several points. A dozen mounted police, reinforced by a score of policemen on foot, charged into a crowd of strikers and helpers of the American Express Company in front of the home of Helen Gould at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street when they learned of the company's officials who urged them to return to work.

Fifth avenue at that point was crowded with hundreds of women and scores of vehicles. The women fled for safety through the side streets as the strikers were driven down the thoroughfare. General Agent E. H. Balfour of the express company followed them, and after they got their pay was accompanied by a number of the linemen who had been on guard outside the depot of the express company.

This began disorganizing the strikers to return to work and the riot followed.

IRISH DYNAMITED BY THE BLACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Four Irish families were initiated into some of the outer mysteries of the Italian Black Hand society to-day, when a bomb was exploded in the hallway of the three-story tenement at No. 798 Washington street.

The machine blew out the panes of the front door, partly wrecked the stairways and shook out window and door panes on the second floor, but hurt nobody. The building is the property of John Romano, an Italian commission merchant. He declared that the Black Hand intended the bomb for his benefit.

RIOTS IN HARVARD IS OFF FOR BIG GAME

By F. V. B. PARKE.

Coaches, managers, students, rubbers, and camp followers were all in the big party, and the team was given a rousing send-off when it left Cambridge.

The program, which will be adhered to strictly, calls for rising at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning and breakfast half an hour later. Bayden will carry them to the Hendric Hudson at the Forty-second street pier, in time to board the 9:30 train which calls for West Point at 10:40, and luncheon will be served on board half an hour before noon, to give the food a chance to digest before the game, which begins at 2:45 o'clock.

Although the Harvard team will go up against a hard proposition in the name of the Army eleven, Haughton will not be downed by a little good fun, and on their return to New York in the evening they will be allowed to relax somewhat by taking in the performances on Broadway and Times Square.

Ban on High Jinks.

There will be no high jinks after the show, the only thing which looks like games to play will be a game of pool on the train. The squad will be sent to bed at 11 o'clock, and on the way to Sunday morning they take the 10 o'clock train back to good old Boston and more hard work.

Here is a complete list of those who will

GETS CHARGE OF SHOTGUN IN FACE

SCITUATE, Oct. 28.—Although he got thirteen shot in his face and arm while gunning in the woods on Thursday, Edward Edson refuses to believe Dolores is an unlucky number. He expects to be all right soon. Only a fortnight ago he was swept from his boat while coasting off shore on the gunning ground and had a miraculous escape, being brought ashore unconscious and apparently drowned. While gunning with a cousin, both expert shots, he got in range of his companion's gun.

MAYOR WANTS FENWAY SITE FOR HIGH SCHOOL

For the city's High School of Commerce. Although the Mayor expressed surprise, Mr. Thompson contended that he believed that it was generally understood that instruction in selling goods was the main object of the school.

Mr. Thompson met the Mayor during a conference in the Mayor's office with representatives of the School Board, the Schoolhouse Commission and Park and Bath Departments relative to the selection of a new site for the proposed High School of Commerce building.

Although five sites have been considered and three of those abandoned, the Mayor believes now that there is but one suitable location for a $500,000 building, and that is on the Back Bay Fens, near the Art Museum and close to where the Arnold Arboretum School is to be erected.

The members of the School Board want a more central location. Mr. Thompson advocated the Park square site. The members of the School Board were not united upon any location. Chairman Ellis suggested South Boston, near Summer street extension, and Councilwoman Lee urged a site behind the Cadets Armory on Columbus avenue.

The Mayor declared that he would never vote to place the school in a crowded part of the city and said the city would save some $500,000 by deciding upon a site in the Fenway in addition to providing a place where the pupils would have ample room for outdoor sports.

He also said that the demand for accommodations of the High School of Commerce would be no great during the next few years that it would be necessary to make additions to the proposed building or erect a new structure.

Following an extended discussion relative to the proposed site, the Mayor procured automobiles, and upon his invitation the party went out to the Fenway to inspect the location suggested by the Mayor.

After reaching this place the Mayor also pointed out the advisability of taking two acres of the city land in the vicinity for a central athletic field.

King George Condoles With Deposed Manuel.

LONDON—King George and ex-King Manuel, the deposed and exiled boy monarch of Portugal, met in royal embrace at Woodnorton in Worcestershire today. King George personally condoled with the royal exile, and Manuel accepted his sympathy in a deeply affected manner with tears in his eyes. King George was accompanied by Queen Mary. They went to town and will return to London this evening. Manuel and Queen Mother Amelie are living in strict seclusion upon the Wodehton estate of the Duke of Orleans. Manuel kept when the British monarch affectionately placed his arm over the sturdy shoulder of the young man who only weeks ago was apparently seated upon the throne of Portugal.

America Gets Chinese Loan.

The negotiations have been conducted by Wu Ting Fang, president of the Board of Finance and Mr. Menocal, the representative of the International Banking Corporation. The bonds are to bear 5 per cent and the rate of issue probably will be ninety-five. China will use the proceeds of the loan in perfecting currency reform and promoting industrial development.

The action of the railway officials in giving this lavish entertainment is regarded as a bid for the good offices of Prince Tsai Sung, who besides his relationship to the present Chinese dynasty has large hopes for the future.

BOSTON 'HIDE-BOUND,' SAYS LOUIS K. ROURKE

"Boston is hide-bound by its traditions," declared Superintendent Rourke of the Street Department in his address at the Boston City Club. "Tradition has a stronger hold on people here than in any other city where I have ever been. Boston is full of people who want to do something for the betterment of the city. It is the home of uplifters, of civic associations and other organizations, all endeavoring to bring about better conditions, but they don't seem to know how to go about getting what they want in a practical way."

Superintendent Rourke's address principally had to do with the Panama Canal, on which he was a division engineer for nearly five years, but toward the close he spoke of local topics.

"When I came here," he said, "I found that the City Engineer's department was full of a lot of good boys, but there had no responsibility nor authority. The street department was under a superintendent of streets, but entirely independent of the city engineer, and the water department was independent of either. If the superintendent of streets condescended to ask the city engineer for advice, why the city engineer might condescend to give it. The way it results is simply this. The water department digs a hole and fills it up the old way, and then if there is any indenture in the street, it is not up to them, it's up to the street department.

"The time has come when the people are going to run their business as they run their private business, and if those in authority who can bring such a condition to pass don't do so, then the people will put those in office who will."

He spoke strongly in support of the recent ordinance introduced into the City Council providing for the combination of the city's street, engineer and water departments into one body under the management of one head, to be known as the commissioner of public works.

SAYS MAINE HOLDS DIVORCE RECORD

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 28.—Maine now has the largest divorce rate of any State east of the Alleghany mountains," declared Professor Robert J. Sprague of the University of Maine, in an address at the Maine State Conference of Charities. In the five years following 1887, he said, there were 2,511 divorces in Maine and in the five years following 1902 this number had increased to 4,389.

"The Double Cross," a thrilling story of love, intrigue and adventure, begins in Saturday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

ALICE BRADFORD, WHO ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT

MISS ALICE BRADFORD

DENY WEDDING TO VANDERBILT

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Those stories of Jay Gould's reputed engagement to Alfred Vanderbilt are all out nothing but a series of fibs, it is declared. Colonel Isaac Emerson, father of Mrs. Sam Hollins Mc-Kim, who it had been rumored is soon to marry Mr. Vanderbilt, made this statement today at his home:

A report that several rounds of champagne had slight to do with it had Vanderbilt and Mrs. McKim had been married in another city was also denied by the father.

Mr. daughter and I returned from Bermore yesterday where we had been for several days and came direct to this place," declared Colonel Emerson. "Reports that my daughter and Mr. Vanderbilt are soon to wed, or are even engaged, are absolutely false. My daughter is not engaged and as far as I know is in no way contemplating marriage at this time."

WADE CHANCE SEEKS DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Oct. 28. The final chapter in the romance of the Wade Chances has been begun. The youthful writer, broker and banker, has filed papers for divorce from his elderly wife, the society novelist, who was Mrs. S. Van Rensselaer Cruger of Boston.

It is just over a year since the couple separated. Their wedding thus lasted only seventeen months.

Before her first marriage Mrs. Wade Chance was Miss Julia Storrow of Boston. She was grand niece of Washington Irving, and a descendant of genuine old Knickerbocker stock. Much of her early life was passed in France, and after her marriage to Colonel Van Rensselaer Cruger, controller of the Trinity Corporation, she became a leader in the most exclusive society in New York and Boston.

Wade Chance, who originally hailed from Canton, O., was associated in New York with Spencer Trask. He then went to London and established his own Bra Wade Chance & Co. The firm also has offices at No. 25 Broad street, New York, which Wade Chance opened when he returned to Manhattan after his separation from his wife.

The cause of the estrangement has never been divulged.

MRS. DOLKE GETS $5,000 ALIMONY

Miss Ottie C. Dolke of Tarrytown, who was married to William E. Dolke, Nov. 5, 1885, at Defiance, O., was awarded $5,000 alimony by Judge Hardy in the divorce court. The case was not contested. It was shown that the defendant has a salary of $2,100 a year and that stock valued at $100,000 from which derives an annual income of $7,000. Mrs. Dolke said her husband deserted her in 1902 while living in St. Louis.

WEALTHY WOMAN SUES FOR SUPPORT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Although owning property in this city and Atlantic City and keeping horses and servants, Mrs. Carrie Rieker of No. 109 Conestoga street, West Philadelphia, has had her husband, Albert Rieker, arraigned by the desertion court on a charge of non-support. The couple were married in 1905, but separated without the marriage having been consummated.

WORST COLD BROKEN AND GRIPPE MISERY RELIEVED IN FEW HOURS.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia, pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, nausea, catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly, and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

MISS BRADFORD SOON TO MARRY

Engagements and rumors of engagements are keeping the smart set tiptoed with audacity these days, for there is first a whispered rumor here and there until the question of who is engaged, and who isn't, is coming to be a much mooted one. Vincent Club girls are still in the lead and another of these fair damsels has announced that she, too, is to desert ranks and in the near future don bridal attire. The young girl in question is no less a personage than handsome Alice Bradford only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. L. Bradford (Florence Hoar) of Bay State Road and Concord. John Bowditch is the lucky man. The announcement was made at the country home of the Bradfords in Concord, and came as pretty much of a surprise to many of the friends of the fair Alice, though her intimates were all in the know and for some time have been predicting just this outcome. Miss Bradford is one of the handsomest girls of the Vincent Club and ever since her debut has taken part in the famous drill, for which only the best set-up girls of the Club are chosen. She made her debut a couple of seasons ago and ever since has had suitors galore in her train.

Mr. Bowditch is the son of Mrs. Ebenezer Bowditch (Elizabeth Berry) of "Millwood Farm," Framingham. He is one of the most popular young men about town and is likewise one of the wealthiest.

ALLEGE MAN STRUCK WIFE WITH STICK

Mrs. Giovanni Mourizo of No. 123 Sumner street, Quincy, was assaulted near her home, and is at the City hospital in a critical condition from a blow on the side of the head which produced a concussion of the brain. Her husband was arrested by Patrolman Olsen in a house on Summer street, where Mourizo had taken refuge and is held on a charge of assault. Mr. and Mrs. Mourizo are both about twenty-five years old. Mrs. Mourizo was walking near her home, carrying her baby, when her husband, according to the police, rushed out of the yard and struck her over the head with a stick.

MAY BAR MARRIED WOMEN EMPLOYES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Married women in the Government's employ who have husbands able to support them will be in danger of losing their positions if a recommendation about to be made to the various departmental economy committees is favorably received. Many married women who have lost their positions through the introducing of rural economies, in making applications for reinstatement, have suggested that they be given places held by married women whose husbands are able to support them. It is understood that such a recommendation may be made to the economy committee.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—An ordinance to suppress giggling, gushing and garrulous girls, and also young men who make themselves generally obnoxious to other spectators at theatres, will be introduced in the City Council by Councilman George C. Rubens. He says "there ought to be a heavy fine for such frequent displays of bad breeding." Councilman Rubens is the author of the hatpin ordinance now in force in this city.

HOW TO TREAT THE SKIN

Many skin diseases like eczema are due to an external cause and are not the result of impure blood. The taking of internal medicines is a waste of time and money, as many sufferers can testify. The simplest and safest remedy is Cadum, the new medical compound. It stops the itching at once, and the healing begins immediately. People who have suffered for years and who have tried everything should take fresh courage, for this new compound is different from anything else. It is for sores, psoriasis, ulcers, ringworm, rash, pimples, scaly skin, scabs, eruptions, blotches, itch, etc. 10c. and 25c. per box. At all druggists.

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS MORNINGS

LE BLANC GIRL HAS BIRTHDAY; AWAITS TRIAL

Many features new to Massachusetts jurisprudence will mark the trial of Hattie Le Blanc for the alleged murder of Clarence F. Glover, which begins in the East Cambridge court on November 28, one year and eight days after the tragedy in Waltham.

Notably it will be one of the first instances of the trial of a prisoner charged with capital crime before a single Justice. Again, it is one of two instances of the trial of a girl of such tender years for a capital offense. The other instance was the trial of Nina Danforth, who shot her faithless sweetheart.

Within a few days a conference of judges will be held at which it will be determined which judge shall hear the case. As one preliminary, a conference was held yesterday between District Attorneys Higgins and Attorney Martin M. Johnson, who will defend Hattie Le Blanc.

A venire will have been to aid the bailiffs of the county except Waltham, from the principals in the case realled, and it is expected that 300 names will be submitted from which to draw the jury.

Hattie Le Blanc will be tried in the East Cambridge court room, whose walls have echoed the details of some of the most famous murder cases of Massachusetts. There was heard the famous trial of Charles L. Tucker for the murder of Mabel Page, the renowned Eastman case, the evidence which was unfolded in the Adds' Auntie Mullins' murder case and the trial of Chester Jordan, one of but two of which those convicted under whom the Jordan case was tried exceptions are still pending, and in the Mesmer case the young man are still awaiting sentence, while their attorneys are working out grounds for a new trial.

Hattie 17 Yesterday.

Because of the popular interest in the fate of Hattie Le Blanc, who was seventeen yesterday, special officers from the Cambridge police department will be established to assist the county officers to preserve order.

The Grand Jurors, who assumed so many added duties in addition to the grave issue of who shall try the fate of Hattie, that no less than fifteen lawyers, first and last, have been engaged in it. Those who will appear in the criminal court for the defense of Hattie Le Blanc are six in number, three on either side, as far as known.

For the prosecution they are District Attorney John J. Higgins, Assistant District Attorney Charles E. Welt and Assistant District Attorney Harry Sawyer. The battle for Hattie Le Blanc will be Martin M. Johnson, associate, A. Farley Bowser, and M. Johnson's father, B. F. Johnson.

The list of witnesses for the prosecution is a notable one. Chief Inspector John H. McKenna, Sergeant William P. McKenna, Sergeant Curley, Dr. Thomas Dolan, who heard Glover's death and statements, and Policeman Kelley, of Waltham, and Sergeant-Inspector Charles E. Byrnes from the District Attorney's office. Officials Detective E. Leon Van Hale, Neil Stroune and Lawrence Smith may be called during the trial to recount their investigations.

Prominent among the witnesses to be heard will be Mrs. Lillian F. Glover, widow of the dead laundryman; Irene and Lillian Le Blanc, sisters of the accused girl; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Freeman of Auburndale, friends of the Glover family; and Dr. Nicholas W. Cooney, who conducts the hospital to which the dying man crawled after the shooting.

There may also be called as witnesses for the prosecution, besides the men who are officially in the case. It is not impossible that the five Glover children, William, Albert P., Arthur D. and Norman S. Glover, will take the stand.

Clergymen have signified a willingness to be present. They are the Rev. Bernard Doolittle of West Arichat, who was Hattie's pastor, spiritual adviser, the Rev. Pierre Grenier of St. Joseph's Church of Waltham, and the Rev. Anton Raisel of North Cambridge.

Thomas Colley, who says he sold the revolver that caused Glover's death to a woman, may be called. Seymour Glover, who worked for his grandfather, Glover in the laundry, and his wife, May M. Glover, both friendly to the Glover family, may be among the number.

May Call Attorneys.

Attorneys Alton E. Tupper and Samuel D. Jacques, attorneys for the Glover estate, who were present in the Glover house some of the time Hattie was confined under the bed, and who, both of them testified that her presence was not known in the house, may report for testimony.

Mrs. C. W. Dutch, who was one of the first to see Clarence F. Glover, as he crawled to the steps of the hospital, will testify if needed. Inspector Welt, with Mr. McCarthy, who was present a little later, Howard W. Stanley, who talked with Mrs. Glover in the hospital; Dr. Frederick Schwedt, who assisted Dr. Cogswell, who was present at the dying declaration; Gatchell, Boulter, also thought to be among people about the laundry other than Chauncey Glover, Charles Walter Burnham, who regularly drove the Glover automobile and owned the coat Glover wore the night of the killing; Mrs. Kate Bailey, son of Annandale, relative of Hattie Le Blanc; Undertaker Daniel A. Costigan, who told the police that he thought Hattie Le Blanc concealed in the house; Conrad Bailey, who picked up the revolver where Clarence F. Glover said he threw it over the fence near the laundry, and William H. McCall, superintendent of the laundry, who picked up a woman's comb on the laundry floor. Hattie Le Blanc, herself, is expected to take the stand.

Captain Peter King of Arichat has signified a willingness to come to Boston and testify for Hattie Le Blanc.

Besides these are many others who believe they know things for or against Hattie Le Blanc and who are willing to testify. It has been stated that several unnamed witnesses would be produced who would throw added light upon the case.

Mr. Joseph Miller and his mother are living examples of what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey will do for the weak and run down man or woman. They both are the picture of health.

"I want to make the following statement as to the efficacy of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. For many years my mother, who is now over seventy years of age, and myself, were very much run down in health. I consulted a number of physicians, but received little or no benefit from their treatment. I read your advertisement in the local press and asked my family doctor regarding the merits of your preparation. He advised me to use it, and I gladly say it has benefited us both exceedingly, and I heartily recommend it to any one in a run down condition." JOSEPH MILLER, 237 West 38th St., New York.

No medicine can stand the test of fifty years like Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and always been found absolutely pure and full of good medicinal virtue. Men and women in all walks of life who have been benefited join in singing its praises as the true elixir of life which invigorates body, brain and nerve.

SIR F. W. BORDEN ON RECIPROCITY; BLAMES THE U. S.

That the failure of reciprocity with Canada and Boston's failure to continue as the commercial centre of eastern Canada are the fault of the United States, was declared by Sir Frederick W. Borden, minister of militia and member of the Canadian Cabinet, at the International Club meeting. He urged a revision of the American tariff along Canadian tariff lines, and also spoke in favor of a peace jubilee two years hence in celebration of the 100th anniversary of peace being declared between the United States and Great Britain.

"I was one of the strongest supporters of reciprocity that ever lived," said Sir Frederick. "I say I was. And I would again if we could get reciprocity back, where they were trying once before. It was once in force, and Boston was one of the eastern cities that got results. Reciprocity has been killed, and I suppose we can only say standing by and wait to get our friends back.

"We don't want to do business in Canada with Boston. We want to continue to do business with Boston. We don't want to take your money from you. Don't you want to take a fair look at the Canadian market?

"In the matter of immigration, the only way to get people to go to the West is to let them go there. You are sending the people to the northwest. American people have always been asked to go to Canada. Thousands would result from a reciprocity treaty. Reciprocity would be good, not so formerly, not so much as a strong strong treaty of friendship.

"If some of the great growth of the country of Canada and declared that the people of the United States had a right to share in the development of the country. The declaration that the day of exchange for corn was nearly coming effect.

"The Hague tribunal decision, as a meeting of two disputes between Canada and the United States, home rule for Ireland and the settlement of the Canadian boundary between England and the United States, are subjects which I have not touched upon."

Among those present were Mayor A. J. Wolf of Lowell, U. S. Senator W. M. Butler, J. Murrin, president of the Boston Stock Exchange, A. C. Chesley, president of the Boston Elevated Railway, and William J. Rotch.

CHELSEA'S GREAT SUCCESS.

What the great exposition at Chelsea has done for the city is the subject of a special article, written by William M. Hattendorf, chairman of the committee on publicity, which will appear in the Boston Sunday American.

BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Miss Sears "Snapping" Aviator Grahame-White

Miss Eleonora Sears, the Boston society girl and aviation enthusiast, snapshotted on the aviation field at Belmont Park by an American photographer just as she trained her camera on Grahame White, the English aviator.

evening around the smaller circuit half a dozen times, he steered his course toward Hilton hangars. A light rain had commenced to fall while the flyer was in the air, but this ended within a few feet of the starting point. He was wet from the waist and splashed with oil, but radiantly happy.

"I'll give the Wright's a race for it," he said with a smile. "I believe I have shown them that no machine is capable of so many manoeuvres."

In absence of her family Miss Eleonora Sears is reported to sail with Grahame-White in the latter's machine carrying cross-country flight this afternoon.

Glenn Curtiss Barred From Team.

General dissatisfaction prevailed among American aviators at Belmont Park today when it was announced that Glenn H. Curtiss was practically thrown out of the team selected to fly for the international cup, which is considered for homemade Curtiss was barred from the team because he is not a citizen of this country. He consistently refused to take out his papers, declaring that the type of machine upon which he is the pioneer of, taking part in the international

A committee of one was Curtiss' answer to the action of the committee when it selected the Wright brothers' machine to represent the United States. Curtiss and the other defenders and their substitutes so far have Walter Brookins, J. Armstrong Drexel and Charles K. Hamilton, substitutes.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Woodell and Jack Hoxie

It was originally planned to hold elimination races and so let the American defenders get in practice for the international contest.

But there was too much wind for elimination contest yesterday and the Aero Club committee decided to call the defenders. Then Curtiss was left out.

The one person who have been chosen by the committee proved the best. He will probably use the new Wright machine which has been specially constructed for him. It was in Hilton that Paul Thebaud, Jr., was shot by John Dreiffus, his friend, yaret, three years ago. Dreiffus killed himself after wounding his master, who was close to death for weeks, but recovered. No explanation of the attempt at murder was ever reached. Just before work on Hilton was begun another tragedy in the family of the family stone $50,000 in jewels.

Fortune Started Long Ago.

Thebaud is a descendant of Joseph Peter, a French merchant, who came to Boston in 1771 from China, where he had amassed a fortune. He came to New York that year and founded the house of Thebaud Brothers, which was a leader in Central and South American trade. Upon the assignment in 1900 of Paul G. Thebaud is a member of nineteen clubs, the most interest centring in the New York and Larchmont Yacht Clubs and in the Sons of the Revolution, with which he is identified.

Mrs. Thebaud is a descendant of Francis Ormond who came to America early in the nineteenth century. She is known well as a horsewoman, and has long been a familiar figure about the Rockwood Hunting Club and the Aquidneck Golf Club. In recent years the family has spent almost the whole of their time abroad. Thebaud's long age as 1891 became a member of the "400" of Ward McAllister's book and ladder company there, and has often been a member of the Masonic confraternity, which he himself made up of wealthy men living in the country.

W. P. WORCESTER, HEALTH CLERK, DEAD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—William P. Worcester, chief clerk of the United States public health and marine hospital service, died at the age of sixty-five at his home here. He was a native of Vermont and during the Civil War was a corporal of the Ninety-first Illinois Volunteers.

EX-ASSEMBLYMAN BURNED TO DEATH

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Captain Henry J. Daggett, former Republican Assemblyman, was burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the home in which he lived alone at Sea Haven, Oswego County. Captain Daggett, who was a retired sea captain, was eighty years old.

BIG SURPRISE FOR SOCIETY AS THEBAUDS PART

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Hillair, the fine country home of Paul Gilbert Thebaud, at Glen Falls, N. Y., has been closed and in the hands of a caretaker for the last two weeks. In that period Mrs. Thebaud has been living in the Waldorf-Astoria, No. 161 Madison avenue, with her son Reynal and Paul, Jr., while her husband has been staying at the New York Yacht Club in West Forty-fourth street.

The White Plains colony has not been so stirred in years as it has by the apparent separation of the Thebauds, who come from prominent families. Mrs. Thebaud was a principal heir to the $10,000,000 estate left by her mother, Mrs. Jules Reynal. The Thebauds were among the pioneers of the White Plains colony and for years have been leaders in its activities.

There is gossip the difficulties that may exist between the Thebauds will be taken to the courts, though as the couple are Catholics, an action for legal separation is not likely.

Had a Brilliant Wedding.

Archbishop Corrigan performed the ceremony uniting Thebaud and Matilde Reynal in St. Francis Xaviers church on January 15, 1890. The wedding was the most brilliant of that year. The young couple took a town house at No. 158 Madison avenue, facing Madison square, opposite the Worth monument, where Mrs. Thebaud is now staying. They entertained extensively, and were among the annual entertainment with which the Thebauds celebrated the anniversary of their marriage came to be an established festivity. These anniversary celebrations continued until the costs upon.

Hillair, which is declared the handsomest place on Glen Island Harbor, Long Island, has been the home of the Thebauds since its completion three years ago. It overlooks the Sound and cost $500,000 exclusive of the estate of three acres on which it stands. The Italian villa that forms the most conspicuous feature of the grounds have been copied from those of their friends in New York.

It was in Hillair that Paul Thebaud, Jr., was shot by John Dreiffus, his friend, yaret, three years ago. Dreiffus killed himself after wounding his master, who was close to death for weeks, but recovered. No explanation of the attempt at murder was ever reached. Just before work on Hillair was begun another tragedy in the family of the family stone $50,000 in jewels.

BOY SORRY HE FAILED TO KILL FATHER

WORCESTER, Oct. 28.—Taking $2.50, which his mother gave him for the purchase of a pair of new shoes, Patrick J. O'Connor, aged seventeen, son of Patrick O'Connor, of No. 86 Penn avenue, purchased a revolver and made an attempt to kill his father by emptying the seven chambers at him as he chased him through the street in the vicinity of their home.

Young O'Connor was arrested an hour later on a charge of assault with intent to murder. When taken to a cell the boy expressed regret that he had failed to carry out his attempt at patricide. He said: "I would have plugged him sure if he had not dodged behind every tree on the avenue."

He declared that he made up his mind to kill his father Tuesday night, and the only thing that kept him from making the attempt was his lack of funds with which to buy the revolver.

Tuesday was his seventeenth birthday and when he brought home his weekly pay from the Horton Manufacturing Company his mother gave him $2.50 to buy a pair of new shoes.

As soon as he had his supper eaten he went to a second-hand store, where he bought a revolver and box of cartridges.

He returned home immediately and hunted around until his father put away the coin he had given him for the shoes. Then he went out on the street and his father saw him pause, draw and open fire. Mr. O'Connor started on a run with the boy after him and the latter fired at every chance he had until the revolver was empty.

Mrs. O'Connor in the presence of Officer Davidson blamed the father for his treatment of the boy and said his usage of the boy was responsible for the attempted murder.

WEDS AT PARENTS' SILVER WEDDING

SALEM, Oct. 28.—Guests at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George Wells Cressy at their home, No. 30 Grove street, also witnessed the wedding of the eldest son of the couple, George Bertram Cressy. It was known that the young man was engaged to Miss Merle Brown Means of Lynn, but none looked for the event to happen so soon after the First Baptist church in Beverly, but it was generally believed that the marriage would not take place for a month.

VICTIM OF RIVER IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED

WAYLAND, Oct. 28.—Medical Examiner Palmer of Framingham today made an examination of the body of the man who was drowned in the Sudbury River yesterday afternoon near the stone arch bridge. There was nothing on the man's person which would lead to his identification. In one of the pockets of his coat was a check book on a Stoneham bank, but there was no name in it. The man was about fifty years old. Yesterday he rigged a boat and went fishing on the river.

ASKS A RETRIAL OF HER ALIENATION SUIT

LITTLEHAM, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Samuel A. W. Bechtel, of Needham, who has been held responsible for the alienation of the affections of her nephew, George H. Webber, is to be brought by Mrs. Webber, asked a retrial of the case. In his motion filed in the Norfolk Superior Court here Mrs. Bechtel's counsel, Harvey H. Pratt, alleges that the verdict is against the evidence and that the damages awarded are unwarranted.

BOSTON "HOME OF UPLIFTERS" WHO SEEM IMPRACTICAL

Boston is full of people who want to do something for the betterment of the city. It is the home of uplifters, of civic associations and other organizations, all endeavoring to bring about better conditions, but they don't seem to know how to go about getting what they want in a practical way. Boston is hide-bound by its traditions. Tradition has a strong-er hold on people here than in any other city where I have ever been.

—Superintendent Rourke to the Boston City Club.

FIGHT FIRE IN COAL POCKET

Hundreds of tons of coal are being consumed in a fire that is raging in the new coal pockets of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, near the South Boston station. The fire was discovered by employes today. The apparatus owned by the railroad was put in operation at once, but was found inadequate and a still alarm brought Engine 15 to the scene.

It will be necessary to keep a constant stream of water pouring upon the smouldering fire for many hours.

SCHEFTELS 'OFFICE FURNITURE ON SALE

Mahogany and oak furniture, carpets and rugs which adorned the handsome private office of B. H. Scheftels & Co., failed brokers, were sold at auction in the basement of Jerauld & Co.'s warehouse at No. 40 Bromfield street today by order of Receiver Irving L. Kriet. There was a large crowd at the sale and the bidding was spirited. The goods auctioned off originally cost about $1,200. The price which the furniture brought today were considered good.

JUDGE RUGG DENIES INJUNCTION ON FOSS

Judge Rugg of the Supreme Judicial Court today refused to issue an injunction against Eugene N. Foss to restrain him from allowing the Auto Top Company from using a building on Newbury street, on the ground that the class of work done by the company was in violation of the original restrictions imposed upon the land by the Boston Water Power Company, which received a deed in fee from the Supreme Judicial Court had held to be valid.

COURT BARS CUT ON LEMON RATE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 28.—Judge Van Sweringen in the United States Court has issued an injunction enjoining the interstate commerce commission from putting into effect a reduction of 10 cents per hundred pounds in the rate on lemons from Pacific to Atlantic coast points.

OPERA STARS SEARCH LIBRARY

Alice Nielson, prima donna, and M. Castlet, the new conductor of the Boston Opera House, are daily visitors at the Boston Public Library, where they are busily searching for a thorough description of appropriate costumes for Dubussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue," which is to have its first performance during the second week of the present season.

The quest has reached the stage where various costumers are making models, but the process is laborious, for every model is subjected to thorough historical criticism and many have been rejected.

HARRISON'S GREATEST SACRIFICE CLOTHES SALE

It is necessary on the clothing trade as never has been a record of business conditions similar to this Fall—the warm weather Fall of 1910. Oh! such weather!

We have seen bad business weather before, but the weather this Fall has been regarded in the clothing trade as the most unseasonable weather ever known.

What is the result? Every manufacturer is behind in his collections—small concerns and some large ones, too, are going to the wall. Every day hears a new crash in the business world. Every store of our stupendous buying power is flooded with clothing offers never dreamed of earlier in the season.

Lucky for us, we have been doing the same big business that has made our corner famous and we were in shape to handle anything that came along.

Early this week it came. A broker representing a syndicate of America's leading manufacturers of men's and boys' fine clothing put a proposition to us to handle a sacrifice of a dozen famous lines of suits and overcoats. We hesitated a short time—cut the wholesale price still lower—the offer was closed, and to-day we place before the men, young men and boys of greater Boston the greatest value in suits and overcoats ever offered in this country.

We defy anybody to refute this statement.

Now listen!

We can't describe every lot. Let us merely say that every shade of blue, brown, gray and mixed goods is represented in every line offered. Every line has every size chest, leg and arm measure. The lines are all complete, and for a rough estimate we should say that our sacrifice price represents about one-third to one-half the regular retail value of every offering.

A full line of suits and overcoats for men and young men at each of these prices: $6.00, $7.00, $7.98, $8.50, $10.00, $12.50, $15.00, $18.00.

A full line of suits and overcoats (all styles) for boys at $1.89, $2.89, $3.89.

Sale now going on. Mail orders filled. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back. Express paid on all orders over $5. Open till 9 o'clock Friday evening and 10 o'clock Saturday evening.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

A Disorder Which Yields to the Tonic Treatment as This Philadelphia Case Shows.

There is a form of indigestion in which the stomach may be in a perfectly sound condition. This is called nervous dyspepsia and arises from a disturbance of the nervous system which controls the digestive process. That the nerves do control this process is evident from the fact that acute emotions such as grief or despair immediately stop digestion, and that an injury to the brain or a nerve center causes nausea and other disturbances of the stomach. The digestive fluids such as saliva and gastric juice are the products of cells which are abundantly supplied with nerve fibres, and the nerve expectation of food will start the flow of these fluids.

An instance in which this form of nervous trouble was readily cured by the tonic treatment was that of Mr. Joseph Waldon, of 818 North Eighth street, Philadelphia, Pa. He says:

"I think my nervousness was due to railroad work with its long hours and irregular meals. I was sick for four or five years and at one time was confined to bed. I had no desire for food and was generally distressed by what I ate. The heartburn, gas formed on my stomach and often I had to vomit. I got out of breath and would have palpitation of the heart if I exerted myself. My head ached a great deal and some days would be so bad that I would have to quit work and come home. I had no strength or ambition, was pale and very nervous. I was restless and could not sleep well for I would suddenly wake up through the night with a startled feeling.

"The doctor said I had nervousness but his prescriptions did not help me. Some of my friends advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I did and got better in a short time. I took quite a few boxes in all and was completely cured."

A new edition of the booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat," is free on request. Send a postal for it today and begin to cure yourself by following the directions it contains.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The AMERICAN goes into more homes than all the other evening papers of Boston combined. It is the Quality newspaper.

ALL ABOUT NEW ENGLAND IN BIG SUNDAY SPECIAL

New Englandesque!

There's a coined word. It is invented especially to describe the big, special New England number of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN, which is to be issued next Sunday, October 30.

The word "New Englandesque" is used because the big special number is to be all about New England. It will contain over 100 pages of intensely interesting news matter. It will tell about New England from Long Island Sound to the Canadian line, from Eastport, Me., to the Berkshire Hills.

New England, her people, places, social, commercial and educational activities, will be described in keen, incisive style by trained writers.

You will need the big special number for yourself, for your friends at home, for your friends in other parts of the country. You should place an order to-day with your newsdealer for as many copies as you wish to secure. Don't wait till Sunday in the expectation of buying copies then. There will be a tremendous demand for this special New England number. If you wait till Sunday noon your newsdealer may be sold out.

Do not miss this special New England number. If you figure it up with the times, get the New England number of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN of Sunday next, October 30.

E. W. Coleman, brother of George W. Coleman, who is serving a sentence at the Greenfield Jail for his part in the wrecking of the National City Bank of Cambridge, and Francis E. Bailey, employed respectively as clerk and weigher for Coleman Brothers, coal dealers at Cambridge, were discharged by Judge Wabott in Cambridge Court on charges of giving short weight coal.

BUSINESS MEN VOTE TO URGE SUBWAY DELAY

The Chamber of Commerce has passed a vote urging in effect that the construction of the proposed Riverbank subway should be deferred until an agreement is reached bearing on present and future transportation needs of Boston after a comprehensive study of them had been made by a commission.

The report of the public utilities committee on that score was presented and occasioned a protracted discussion which lasted from the chamber hearing to the public utilities and city planning committees, acting jointly, to devise means whereby the matter can be brought to the attention of the Legislature.

The meeting was the first of the Winter and the assembly room was crowded to the doors, showing the general interest. It was the continuation of the Riverbank subway project. Members of the West End Association and the Boylston Street Merchants' Association, which have subway plans of their own, were present and urged delay in the Riverbank subway matter. The Riverbank subway has been authorized by law and contracts to build it are about to be signed; hence to defer its construction gives Rie and hope to the proposed Boylston street tunnel and the plans of the West End Association.

The recommendation of the Public Utilities Committee was:

The resolves of 1910 do not specifically direct the joint commission to make a comprehensive study of the present and future transportation needs, but such a study is involved in the investigations which are submitted to that commission. We recommend that the commission may well confine itself to a thorough and comprehensive report by the joint committees, or some other suitable board, as to the general prospective transportation needs, and as to the relation which the subway plans already promulgated by the city and by the Boston Elevated Railway Company bear to them, and as to whether they would be better met by different or further projects; also that the joint commission, or some other permanent board, be charged with the duty of making progressive studies and recommendations as to the transportation needs of the metropolitan district from time to time, and the best means of meeting those needs.

It was passed in this form with this amendment:

That the report of the committee be accepted and its recommendations adopted and made the recommendations of the chamber, and that the chamber pledges its objection to the construction, at present, of the proposed Riverbank subway, or any extension subway plan, of any subway plan which has not already built or under construction, also that the handling of this matter be placed in the hands of the committee of public utilities and city planning.

The West End Association and the Boylston Street Merchants' Association asked the Riverbank advocates to consent to a postponement.

Representative Bennet advocated the subway scheme, saying it would be a great mistake to defer longer the construction of the subway, which was much needed.

SHOT OFF FINGER SENT TO PRISON

His sentence to one year's imprisonment in Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for wilfully disabling himself has been announced in addition to his dishonorable discharge from the service.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food Eaten Is Worthless Unless Digestion Some Stomachs Must Have Help

Food taken into the stomach which, from its nature of the food or the condition of the stomach is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes, and a great many dyspeptics go only that far with their reason for not eating. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them they must be given less work, in other words, they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help to digest and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and as nearly as the stomach and liver ought to be they digest and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On the account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten, and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain get all the good nutriment food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and not lose his clothes. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some one to feed, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a 10-cent baby. A strong, man-doing stomach work must be properly fed, and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and they are the only article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of everyone.

MRS. GLOVER DEFENDANT IN SLANDER SUIT

Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of Clarence W. Glover, the murdered Waltham laundryman has been made defendant in a suit brought by Captain Peter King of West Arichat, C. B. Captain King alleges that Mrs. Glover slandered his good name and he asks for damages to the amount of $20,000.

A deputy sheriff levied attachment on all of Mrs. Glover's real property in Middlesex County, and despicably that standing in the name of Tobie B. Le Blanc. The property referred to as especially attached is the realty in Waltham bought in the name of her brother Tobie and ordered restored to her by Judge Hitchcock, in the equity court of Suffolk County recently.

Basis for Action.

The action against Mrs. Glover is based, according to Harry F. W. Dolan of Dolan, Bateman & Stebbins, attorneys for Captain King, on statements alleged to have been made by Mrs. Glover to Mrs. Kate Sampson of Newton and others. These alleged statements by Mrs. Glover were repeated by the latter during her testimony at the hearing on Glover's will in the Probate Court, last Winter.

Captain King is a resident of West Arichat, and is not related to the Glovers or the Le Blancs. He is more than seventy years old, and commands a fine schooner along the Atlantic coast and to the West Indies. He is well known in Halifax and in this port among shipping men.

At the time of the probate hearing Captain King was in Barbados. When he returned to his home on Cape Breton, it is said, the people of that town had, by means of newspapers and in other ways, heard of the statements upon which the suit for $20,000 is based.

Captain Over Seventy.

Attorney Dolan said of the suit: "Captain King is over seventy years old and highly respected and honored at his home and among his acquaintances. His wife died in 1889, and since then he has been living with his married daughter at West Arichat.

"Hattie Le Blanc was employed by Captain King's daughter as a general house servant. Captain King has made many voyages between Halifax and Boston and has a large acquaintance among shippers and merchants of this city and other places.

"His relations alone number many in Massachusetts. They and his friends are indignant concerning the statements of Mrs. Glover."

PARTED 13 YEARS, NOW ASKS DIVORCE

Trial of the suit of Wellington A. Stone against Ruth Cora L. stone of Hopkinton, from whom he is seeking a divorce for desertion after thirteen years of separation, is continued today before Judge Hardy. March 1, 1897, when the husband came home, according to his testimony, the wife and his two little daughters were gone. A message on a piece of brown paper was pinned on the mantel. On reading this he sent a letter imploring permission to see her, and expressed a hope that she would at once read the 37th Psalm. He received no reply. His wife is contesting.

COURT AUTHORIZES SALE OF THE HERALD

The United States Circuit Court today authorized the private sale of the Boston Herald. It was announced that the committee representing the bondholders would buy it in. It was announced that J. Wells Farley, secretary to the first Finance Commission, would be the manager, and Clarence G. Haskell, brother of Colonel W. F. Haskell, formerly the publisher, the treasurer. There are $1,000,000 worth of bonds outstanding. The creditors have agreed to a settlement of 40 cents on the dollar. They favored the sale of the paper.

KING GEORGE V. IN THE UNIFORM OF AN ANCIENT

KING GLAD HE IS AN ANCIENT

LONDON, Oct. 28.—King George has accepted honorary membership in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. After recalling the sessions of the visits exchanged by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts and the Honorable Artillery Company, the King added:

"I trust that the brotherly and intimate relations which have existed for years between the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts and the present organization in London and the interchange of visits may maintain ever the spirit of comradeship between the regiments and increase the friendly relations of the two countries."

HUNT GIRL AS AN ALLEGED AID IN BURGLARIES

With George McCann, alias George Wilson, under arrest charged with eight burglaries in residences in the Boston police are searching for Claire Westley, Boston, a twenty-two-year-old girl, the alleged accomplice.

They are supposed to be responsible for at least two score of burglaries and "sneak" jobs in Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Waltham, Malden, the Newtons and other Massachusetts cities and towns.

Thus far no serious record has been found against McCann. He is believed to have originally come from New York. Inspectors Shields and Mitchell of police headquarters were in the Boston district when they found McCann under arrest on suspicion. He was taken to headquarters and searched. In his possession was found a quantity of diamonds and jewelry valued at several hundred dollars. Most of the property had been cut out and disfigured so as to make identification difficult.

McCann refused to talk to the police.

Two indictment warrants were served against him by Inspectors Patterson and Norton last June. Then Lieut. Mark B. Richard with the following jewelries:

February 15—The home of Frederick L. McMaster, 11 Nevada road, Franklin street, Chelsea. Larceny of silverware to the value of $150.

February 24—William L. Hinckley, No. 23 Harvard street, Brookline. Larceny of silverware and jewelry to the value of $1000.

March 14—James Morgan, No. 18 Oliver street, Watertown. Jewelry, particularly containing forty-eight diamonds and chain, stolen.

April 11—Lester D. Marsh, No. 9 Hawthorne street, Malden, jewelry and silverware and money stolen.

May 1—Leah H. Morgan, No. 141 Coolidge street, Brookline. Jewelry to the amount stolen $100.

May 25—Mrs. Ida A. Standish, No. 40 Algonquin street, Dorchester, silverware and jewelry stolen.

May 28—Eugene L. Pierce, No. 37 Oak street, Brookline. Jewelry to the value of $125.

The residence of Charles F. Gettemy, chief of the Bureau of Statistics and Labor, at No. 15 Oak square, Brighton, was entered last Saturday night, and a quantity of jewelry and silverware stolen. Mr. Gettemy was called at once to headquarters and identified some of the articles found in the possession of the prisoners.

Most of the robberies were made by forcing a window with an instrument called a "jimmy," such as is found in every one only silverware, jewelry and money is taken.

Inspector George Sliff of the Brookline police department has been notified of the finding of the property taken from McCann, and that he would probably be wanted in connection with the robbery.

The young woman for whom the police are looking is said to have disposed of some of the property stolen.

SANDWICHES CAUSE HIM TO LOSE WIFE

CLINTON, Oct. 28.—Careless, collarless and with pocket missing, Thomas Falkenberg of Freeport, Ill., rested one tired elbow on the window in front of Sergeant Green's desk at the Harrison street police station today.

"Sergeant, I got a wife lost in this town somewhere," plaintively sighed he was out. She buys sandwiches and that is why she is lost. The man I got lost in this town somewhere," plaintively sighed he was out. She buys sandwiches and that is why she is lost. The man I got lost in this town somewhere," plaintively sighed he was this way. My wife and I got into town last week to a hotel. My wife got lost, and I went down in search of some ham sandwiches. I left her standing on the corner of Main and Church streets. That was last night. I got the sandwiches, but I can't find her. I've been looking for that hotel and my wife all night, and the police are still looking for the hotel and wife.

NASON'S CAMPAIGN COST HIM $520

Edward B. Newton of Whitinsville, Republican nominee for the Senate in the First Suffolk District, paid out $198.15. The salary attached to this office is $500 per year.

Councillor Henry Cushing of Norwood, Republican nominee for re-election in the Second Councillor District, spent $150.

TELEPHONE GIRLS TO DANCE HALLOWE'EN

The Richmond Cooperative Society, which is merely a dignified name for a cluster of the pretty girls who are found operating the switchboards of Boston, will give a Hallowe'en dance in Catholic Union Hall Monday evening. The chairman of the committee on arrangements is Miss Katherine Leary. Assisting in being assisted by the above-mentioned, Miss Mary Curried. BOSTON-BOUND CRAFT CAUGHT IN HURRICANE

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 28.—The three-masted schooner Daisy Davis of Bath, Me., from New York to Boston, was caught in a seventy-mile an hour gale off Point Judith just before midnight Thursday. But for the good seamanship of Captain A. E. Dodge the vessel, instead of being minus her fore and main topmasts and having a mass of twisted rigging, would be at the bottom of the sea. The schooner had a cargo of coal in the hold and tanks on deck. When the squall struck she was carrying more than sail. She trended like a mad for several minutes, then her spars went to the board.

The captain's wife and little daughter assisted the crew of twelve men all night. Today the tug Turmoiler of Baltimore sighted the distressed craft and took off the wife and daughter. Brought in the hapless schooner, which is owned by A. J. Hinckley of Baltimore.

SOUGHT FOR SALE OF STOLEN COWS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 28.—The police here today started a hunt for a man who gave the name of E. T. Grant when he sold eight cows which he is said to have stolen from Frank Dragon of Greenland.

Stating that his father had just died, leaving him a large farm with the herds of cattle and horses, Grant asked Charles Brackett of Brackett & Company, this city, if he wanted to buy some cows. Brackett assented, and gave a check for $228. At Grant's request, he identified the stranger at the bank.

CHICAGO SAVANT TELLS WHY WOMEN LIKE TO BE SHOCKED

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Women like to gossip because the news of the terrible things the neighbors have done gives a pleasing shock to their vaso-motor system, declares the vaso-motor system receives a goodly share of shocks the individual suffers from ennui.

At least this is the theory which William I. Thomas, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago and inventor of the term, "the adventitious character of woman," presented to the delegates of the National League of Handicraft Societies.

"Our primitive ancestors led exciting lives," Professor Thomas said. "We share the appetite for excitement which their experience built up in the race, and, different as our occupations and amusements are from theirs, we enjoy them in proportion as they provide the shocks to the vaso-motor system which they got out of hunting, fighting and escaping from dangerous animals. We crave shocks.

"Perhaps that is the reason some women love husbands who beat them."

FIND 317, KILLED IN ITALIAN STORM

NAPLES, Oct. 28.—Official reports received from the prefect of the Island of Ischia, from the province of Salerno and from the Vesuvian communities, state that 317 bodies of victims of the recent storm have been recovered. King Victor Emanuel has sent $10,000 from his own purse here to aid the flood sufferers. Daily supplies of food are being sent to Ischia, Casamicciola, Ottaro, Majori, Minori and other stricken towns.

LOWELL DEATH TRIAL OPENED

Bogos Muckalan, an Armenian living in Lowell, was arraigned before Judge Dodge in the United States Circuit Court today on a charge of murder in shooting Mohammed Ahmed, a Turk, on the steps of Lowell Postoffice last September. The case comes before the Federal Court, as the alleged murder was committed on Government property. Muckalan pleaded not guilty, and the case was set for trial on December 13.

At the time that Ahmed was shot another Turk, who was with Ahmed, was shot in the eye, but recovered.

Muckalan was quoted at the time as saying that the two Turks had been responsible for persecution and brutality wrought on his native in Armenia.

The Government, on the other hand, says there was money trouble between the men.

HAD SCRATCHED FOR 28 YEARS

Till It Got to be Second Nature—Suffering Endless and Without Relief—Cuticura Made Skin as Clear as a Baby's.

"If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies fifty years ago it would have saved me two hundred dollars and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time and my suffering was endless and without relief. A thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man but feel rich to be free of what some of the doctors called leprosy, something ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took —— and —— sarsaparillas over a year and a half but got no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too much. They made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was two cakes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent. If you had been there and said you would have cured me for two hundred dollars, you would have had the money. I was covered with the scales but by using Cuticura I was soon as clear as any person ever was. This was over twenty-two years ago and for a long time, through force of habit, I used to rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch, but to no purpose—I was well. I had scratched twenty-eight years and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. Dennis Downing, Waterbury, Vt., November 27, 1909."

Cuticura is the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp. A cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. A single set is often sufficient. JUDGE KUNGPAH KING, PEKIN, 'HORRIFIED' AT DIVORCE RECORD HERE

By DOROTHY AMES.

If you were a judge of the most honorable Supreme Court of China and had heard only one divorce case in three years, what would you think if you sat in an American divorce court and heard a round dozen of divorce cases in three hours?

Horrified? Well, that is a mild expression for the emotions experienced by Judge Kungpah T. King, justice of the Supreme Court of Pekin, China, when he sat beside Judge Pierce in the divorce court now in session at Pemberton square.

The judge rolled his eyes to the honorable heavens, he spread his hands in utmost bewilderment and exclaimed:

"Why do you do it?

"You make divorce too easy so that every man with the least little complaint and every woman with the least little respect can send their respective spouses to coventry. He told me from the depths of a big comfortable chair in his rooms at the big Copley Square hotel.

"No wonder Americans have the record for divorce! I find it is as easy—if not simpler—than selecting a new suit of clothes.

An Unlovely Spectacle.

"If a law could be made that would stop divorce, people would stop asking for divorce. It would be like the small boy who asks again and again for sweets. If he gets them every time he asks, he is sure to continue the demand. If he is refused again and again, he realizes that he must go without. Just so your American citizens. If they knew they couldn't be divorced they would fold their hands in resignation, submit to the inevitable and make the best of things generally.

"I deplore the publicity of your divorce courts," he went on earnestly. "It seemed to me the most unlovely spectacle to see men and women obliged to parade their domestic woes before the morbid sympathetic eyes of strange onlookers—and all women who are always to be found in a divorce court through morbid curiosity.

"I cannot understand how a woman who has been dragged through the mire of a divorce court can face society again.

"This judge from a land where women are treated as very lovely but very easily-to-be-broken dolls, was most concerned on this phase of the subject. He sat thoughtful for a moment, chin rested on polished forefingers and then said:

"Many of the women are gentlewomen—women who have never come into the sort of thing before—dragged into it, one might say, by circumstances. The understanding a woman is subjected to by the opposing counsel leaves her with little self respect as if she were the most wretched of creatures.

"The imputations she must answer and the insinuations! Really I cannot comprehend a reason for subjecting a good woman to such indignities.

"You have your juvenile court to protect your boys," he went on excitedly, "surely your women are worthy of equal honor and respect. Your juvenile court protects the boy's interests in every way—keeps him from the contamination of the regular police court—and yet you force your women into the open court room, where anyone who seeks admittance may listen and criticise, scoff and scorn.

"A clever lawyer cross-examining the purest woman that ever lived can by veiled insinuations make her appear in the mind of some less virtuous than she is. The spectators are never willing to believe the best side—never willing to give the benefit of the doubt.

"To me it seems incredible that after such an experience a woman can resume her place in society. In China, it would be impossible. A person who has been divorced or has sought divorce is beyond the pale and is not received afterward.

"Would you suggest the abolishing of divorce?" I ventured.

"It is not for me to say for your country," he returned. "Here you are so free. You have so many privileges. You ought to be the last people to need divorce since you have the privilege of choosing your own life-mates. There a man may legally marry any woman he desires. A woman may virtually choose her own husband. With all that freedom and they are tired of each other and want a divorce.

One Divorce in 3 Years.

"How strange it seems that in my country, where our families choose our wives and husbands, we do not recognize or seek divorce."

"What would be the conclusion—that we would be better off if our families decided when and whom we should marry?" I asked.

"No, no, no! I will not say that," the Oriental judge laughed. "You would have no pain our customs on to an entirely different country."

"No, no; it is not for me to decide. In three years I had only one divorce case in China, so how should I know to solve the American divorce problem? Me! I am bewildered by the many divorces.

"Every day I pick up a paper and read about women with hyphenated names a yard long. They have been divorced and remarried maybe as many as five or six times. What should I call it? They make a profession of it?"

"If a man and woman cannot live together when both have tried honestly to make the best of a bad bargain, it seems permissible for them to live separate but to marry and remarry," I cannot see how they can adopt themselves to so many different husbands and wives.

Our Women Very Lovely.

"Your women, as a whole, are very lovely—beautiful, talented, clever, but to me they seem very much out of their place —not sufficiently sheltered, of their pedestal, as it were.

"Whether the blame lies with the men who do not keep them up high away from harm and bother I have not decided. Maybe it is that the women themselves refuse to stay up on the high places. I think if they would they would be happier themselves and make the men happier. Maybe, too, there wouldn't be such a country of divorces," he suggested, with a wise little twinkle of his eyes.

Then this Eastern judge, with his Oriental reverence for womankind, went hustling off to New York, to look over the Empire City and add new impressions of American women to those obtained in Boston.

GIRL ACCUSED OF POSTAL THEFT, AND HER PET DOG

MISS ETHEL B. CARPENTER

DEFENDS GIRL IN THEFT CASE

Victor Carpenter, first-year student at Tufts Dental School, today declared that his sister, Miss Ethel May Carpenter, assistant in Walpole postoffice, is innocent of the charge of larceny of office funds made against her by postal inspectors.

"I did not know of the charge at first," said Carpenter, "because I did not happen to see the story in the papers and I had not been home. But I am sure there must be some mistake. My sister did not steal $170, as the government claims, nor any other money. I am sure she will be cleared of that charge. It may be due to an error in her accounts."

Miss Carpenter has declared her entire innocence of any wrong-doing. She told her landlady, Mrs. Ernestus Bogden of School street, Walpole, that she had not taken any of the postoffice money for her own uses. She said there must be an error in balancing the office accounts. Miss Carpenter, according to Mrs. Borden, had gotten worked into the evening, settling up the office books for the day.

The Walpole case comes up before United States Commissioner Hayes in this city next Thursday for continued hearing. Miss Carpenter is out on her own recognizance.

MISS HAZARD GOING WEST FOR HEALTH

WELLESLEY, Oct. 28.—Miss Caroline Hazard, who recently resigned as president of Wellesley College after seven years' service, will soon leave for California, where she will spend the Winter in search of renewed health. Dean Ellen F. Pendleton will continue as acting president until a successor to Miss Hazard is elected. Among undergraduates there is considerable speculation whether a man or woman will be elected to the presidency.

WOMAN BEATEN AND ROBBED BY THUG

Miss Mary McDougall of No. 6 Cheswick road, Brighton, while on her way home was attacked by two thugs, at the corner of Englewood and Commonwealth avenues in the Aberdeen district, felled to the ground by a blow with a sandbag and robbed. Miss McDougall was knocked unconscious. She lay on the sidewalk for some time, until found by a passerby, who helped her to her home.

SOCIETY AGENT MISSING; FOUL PLAY IS FEARED

Polley cases prosecuted by the Watch and Ward Society in the Lynn Police Court were continued pending a search for Michael Carboni of Charlestown, principal witness for the Government, who has disappeared. Fellow Watch and Ward agents expressed the opinion in court that Carboni has met with foul play.

Jefferson H. Parker, a Watch and Ward agent, said on the witness stand that in his opinion Carboni had been done away with. He said that Carboni had been engaged in prosecuting a number of opium cases in Boston and elsewhere.

Later Mr. Parker said: "We have not seen Carboni since last Saturday afternoon. Neither has his wife. We have asked the Boston police to locate him. For some time Carboni has been afraid of violence from opium people and policy men he had been getting evidence against.

"There is a gang in Boston known as the 'Forty Thieves' and I'm afraid he has fallen into their hands. If he does not show up in a few days the Watch and Ward society may have the harbor dragged."

The cases in court were those of Charles Gould, Fred Jones, Daniel J. Sullivan, Edward Lynch, Michael Tobin and Florence Smith, all of Lynn, charged with promoting a lottery and passing out lottery slips. Another leading witness against them was Ethel W. Sears, Jr., a former Lynn police officer and now Watch and Ward agent and candidate for Mayor of Lynn. Gould was found guilty and his case was continued for sentence. Lynch was found not guilty and discharged. The cases of the others, in which Carboni's testimony is needed, were continued.

WOODLAND GOLF CLUB FIRE LOSS FIXED AT $5,000

NEWTON, Oct. 28.—Five thousand dollars is the estimate to-day of the loss in the buildings of the Woodland Golf Club, Washington street, Auburndale, by fire which destroyed the annex and 250 lockers of members. Plans for rebuilding are already being discussed.

The fire was discovered by John Johnstone, the greenkeeper. The flames were then breaking out around the doors and windows and Johnstone telephoned the fire department for aid and then put a garden hose into action and began fighting the flames. Raymond McDonald, a brother-in-law of Johnstone, who has been visiting him, also aided in fighting the flames. At best it was a long run for the nearest fire apparatus and when the firemen arrived they found the annex in flames.

Mrs. Minnie A. Mudigan stewardess of the club, also worked hard fighting the flames and rescuing property from the burning building. Two years ago she was stewardess of the Commonwealth Country club at Chestnut Hill when it was burned in the night time. She lived in the club and had a narrow escape with her life at that time.

Charles Burgess, the club professional, had a workshop and storeroom in the annex over the office and all of his property, tools and clubs were destroyed. He had many sets of valuable clubs belonging to members stored there, awaiting his opportunity to work upon them. These were his own clubs, ready for sale, these he was working upon and some other property were destroyed. The kitchen utensils were also destroyed. The kitchen also was badly damaged by the flames.

FATAL HOPE DIAMOND REAPPEARS IN PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The famous Hope gem by the Oula. It was supposed that diamond, which has brought death or misfortune to every person who had owned it for centuries, was lost, but by a peculiar and which was considered to be safe at last at the bottom of the China sea, has reappeared in Paris. It is now on sale in the window of a jeweler in the Rue De la Paix, but its evil reputation has affected its price. Lord Francis Hope sold it for $18,000 but it can be bought now for less than $100,000. About a year ago the diamond was bought by a Persian named Habid, who was said to be acting as an Indian potentate. He took passage for India on the French steamer Seine, which was rammed and sunk in the China Sea.

The Hope diamond became well known in America when it was worn by Lady Francis, once the beautiful May Yohe, born after her marriage to the son of the Earl of Newcastle she returned to the stage and was caught by a Persian vaudeville star. She fell a victim to his baneful influence. After a brief married life she eloped with Putnam Bradlee Hall. Whether he is the original one cannot be told.

Crawford Ranges

Combination Coal and Gas

A combination coal and gas range is the ideal range and an economic necessity in a well ordered kitchen. Gas is convenient in summer and for light work in winter as an auxiliary to a coal range—but where continuous fire is needed as in winter for constant hot water supply and for keeping the kitchen warm a coal range is less expensive, more satisfactory and also more healthful, as it does not vitiate the air of a closed room as a gas range does.

The Crawford combination ranges have gas ovens that are safe against explosions. The burners are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light. This improvement is very important and is patented.

The Gas Oven Damper is automatically opened by the opening of the oven door to light the burner.

There is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven.

Gas Oven and Coal Range can be used at same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at the end.

The Crawford Coal range with its Single Damper (patented), its wonderful Oven, its Ash Hod in the base with Coal Hod beside it, is a joy to cooks.

Overcoats

Judge an overcoat by the store that sells it. If the store has been faithful to the public—if it has stood the test of time (as ours has for close on to thirty years), then you can bank upon that store's merchandise as being right. We talk spot cash in buying overcoats (as in fact everything else) and it has a mighty loud voice. We sell for less money because we pay less—because our experience has taught us how to cut down necessary expense both in the buying and the selling. Most of our suits and overcoats are medium priced because most people want to spend a medium amount of money—but you buy another store's quality at a saving of at least twenty-five per cent.

We welcome the man with ten dollars just as heartily as the man with five times that sum. What's more, we've provided for the one as fully as the other—the man who spends $10 gets every bit as good value for his money as the one with $50. In fact, a far better value than his money will buy in any other store in New England.

Overcoats Or Suits

That Would Sell Anywhere Else At $15

Here is a value that confirms the statement made above as to selling at a less price. Every detail that goes to make up a $15 value in other stores will be found embodied in these suits and overcoats. Mr. Wolf and the clothing buyer picked up some unusually interesting values in New York this week, which will go on sale here to-day.

TEACHERS BEGIN NEW FIGHT FOR MORE PAY

The elementary school teachers of Boston resumed their campaign for an increase in salary with a special mass meeting in Ford Hall, under the direction of the Boston Elementary Teachers' Club, which numbers in its membership all but a score of the grade teachers of the city. It is the purpose of this club to secure an increase in salary from the $936 which is the present maximum to $1,200.

David A. Ellis, chairman of the School Committee, who presided, said there had been no increase in the salaries of the elementary teachers since 1896. On the other hand, the change in the cost of living, he said, had been enormous, and in the standard of living even greater. Thus the purchasing power of a dollar today is hardly greater than that of one-quarter of that amount fourteen years ago, he said.

Major A. Worthington Clarke, former superintendent of schools of Minneapolis, made an address. He said: "The elementary teacher is now subjected to expenses which were not contemplated and for which no allowance was made in a former time. These are expenses of equipment and of professional duties. As to equipment, the teacher now requires professional books and periodicals, and more or less preliminary training in various lines, all of which necessitate an outlay of money. As to professional duties, these imply something of continued study in the form of summer classes or of individual culture studies in special lines, some patronage of the library, the drama, the lecture bureau, the concert or oratorio, the art hall.

"Peculiar local conditions often modify the work and the salaries of our teachers. In spite of the fact that Boston, by the showing of the last census, is of about the size of Boston in population. In fact, all the kindergarten teachers receive from $600 to $900 per year; the grade assistant teachers, a minimum rate of $650 per year, the maximum, $1,000 per year.

"And I find by comparison that it costs from 25 per cent to 35 per cent more to live in Boston than in Western cities.

"James D. Magenis, of the school committee, and Stanton Dr. Brooks, Superintendent of Schools, spoke.

Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, president of the School Voters' League, urged the teachers to take a more active part in the election of the school committee. There was too much feeling, she said, that teachers must remain passive in matters of politics.

BOSTON PREACHER RAPS NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—The system of protecting vice in New Orleans is such that the hand of the Almighty could not make this a decent community inside of twenty-five years." This declaration, by the Rev. James Chase of Boston, was only one of many criticisms of this city by those who came here to attend the National Purity Congress. Mr. Chase said beginning provided for the protection of

MISSION RALLY FOR CHILDREN

A special feature of the sessions of the executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church this week will be a rally for the children tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the First Church, on Temple street. Missionaries from India, China, Japan and other countries will be present, dressed in the costumes of the countries from which they come, and besides giving anecdotes of their work will sing songs in the native tongues. Mrs. Lucie F. Hartzell, who presided.

At today's session of the society reports upon society publications were presented. Miss Elizabeth A. Northrup gave the report of the "Woman's Missionary Friend;" Mrs. O. W. Scott for the "Children's Missionary Friend;" Miss Amalie M. Achard, for "Our Young Missions Friend;" Miss Florence L. Nichols for the "Zenana Papers" and Miss Elizabeth C. Northrup for "Literature." Ways and means of improving the literature of the board were discussed.

This afternoon a quiet hour is conducted by Mrs. W. H. Thompson. Miss M. L. Gulbapfel gives an address upon Korea this evening, which will be illustrated by the pantomimes of scenes from real life in Korea. Bishop Merriam C. Harris of Seoul, Korea, will make the concluding address.

STATE'S WARDS GET SAME CARE AS IN NORMAL HOME

The children in the care of the State are clothed and fed and sent to school, and in many ways treated as well, if not better, than the child of the normal family. This is particularly so in regard to the physical needs. The State's children turn out very much like other children.—James E. Fee, at State Conference of Charities in Fitchburg.

LAWRENCE MAYOR RECITES OWN POEM

WORCESTER, Oct. 28.—Mayor John C. Cahill of Lawrence, a member of the class of 1890 of Holy Cross College of this city, was the principal speaker at the eighth annual observance of Holy Cross night at the college here. Other speakers were Michael J. McNerney, '73, of Gloucester, and Andrew J. Connell, '87, of Worcester. Mayor Cahill made a vigorous plea for clean politics and said that greater moral courage is the greatest need in politics of today. The Mayor also recited an original poem, which he declared to be his first attempt at poetry, entitled "Holy Cross."

$15,000 FOR FALSE ARREST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—A verdict of $15,000 damages for false arrest was awarded at Mineola by a sheriff's jury to Robert Davison, an employe of the New York Transfer Company. Mrs. Mary Martin had been arrested on a charge of stealing a $3,000 necklace.

NAVY YARD MEN GO ON STRIKE

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 28.—Because their wages had been reduced two cents an hour tenders and helpers quit work today at the Portsmouth navy yard. The men had been working for the Noel Construction Company which has the contract for naval hospitals here, at Chelsea and at Newport, R. I. The pay for mortar tenders was reduced from $2.50 to $2 per day and for brick wheelers from $2 to $1.75. Several weeks ago the work was tied up by forty-five masons striking.

TROOPS OUT AS DOUMA OPENS

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 28.—Troops were on guard at the reopening of the fourth session (the Winter session) of the Russian Douma today to preserve order. A stormy meeting was anticipated because of opposition to the proposal to honor the memory of Professor Serge Mouromtseff, who at one time was president of the lower house. Soldiers were stationed not only about the building but inside to quell disturbances. The present session will be one of the most important in the history of the Douma owing to the big program of uplifting legislation.

A "CALL TO ARMS" AT NORTH ADAMS

Political Notes.

George P. Lawrence, the Republican Congressman from the First District, has taken to horseback riding for exercise and political effect of course.

Charles Underhill of Somerville, the chief Republican whip in the Legislature, is doing more extended whipping now than ever before. Not only is he working with the legislative Republican committee to get rid of each back, but he is slapping the new candidates into position.

* * *

Judge Mulligan of Natick, a Republican candidate for re-election, has had his political usefulness by his Democratic opponent on the ground that the constitution forbids his holding a judicial and elective position.

* * *

Dudley Cotton, the Republican candidate for Congress in the Eleventh district, is trying to account for certain contributions for his campaign. He has thus been compelled to file expenditures to the money which he has made in the law. There is enough, though, that the Republican State Committee will come to the front a little

* * *

Mark S. Isbar, Assistant United States District Attorney, is the prize spellbinder on the Republican side. He has a combination of Yankee acuteness blended with Irish wit and a voice that is an unfailing source of power.

* * *

Even the most careful Republican statistician finds himself unable to figure out the record of William H. Wilder in the Eighth Congressional district. A scout has returned yesterday from that section and he found the sentiment for John J. Mitchell among the Republicans so general as to be commonplace. He is the man the hope, though, that they will vote the rest of the Republican ticket

* * *

Congressman Weeks, like a wise general is keeping a wary eye on Harold J. Ryder the Democratic candidate from Newton. Ryder is well known. He was one of the leaders of the town while Weeks was still in knee pants. Ryder has been employed in the office of Secretary Wilfride and does his pretty good execution of it.

* * *

There are surely enough candidates for the great prize on the State ticket. Neither Chairman Hatfield nor Chairman M. Joel yesterday could name the list correctly.

* * *

A rally for the local Democratic candidates for Congress, Senate and House and of the Democratic State ticket, although none of the ticket will be present, is held tonight in Knowlton Hall, Essex and Main streets, Melrose. Walter H. Creamer, Democratic candidate in the Seventeenth district, Daniel H. O'Brien, Congressional candidate in the Sixth, former Mayor Thomas N. Barron, and John H. Clausen House candidate, will speak.

* * *

Herbert Stuart Baker of Quincy invited two friends to the front parlor last night and had them shake hands with J. Mitchell Galvin, Republican candidate for Congress in the Eighth district and Peter F. Tague the big Democratic opponent.

* * *

W. Dudley Cotton, Republican candidate for Congress in the Tenth and Andrew J. Peters, his Democratic opponent, talked their right to the West Roxbury Citizens Association.

* * *

James S. Cannon, Democratic candidate against Judge Newton Hills of Milton for Congress in the Ninth district, addressed the Democratic Club of Milton last night.

"Hilton Clothes Fairly Snap With Style"

SAM BERNARD

Starring in "The Man From Milwaukee," Under the Auspices of Messrs. Sam and Lee Shubert

No comedian on the American stage today enjoys greater popularity than Sam Bernard. His brand of humor fairly convulses his audiences with laughter. In "The Man From Milwaukee" he is excruciatingly funny.

Hilton Clothes have made a fast friend of Sam Bernard—and no one in the profession has a more scrupulous regard for personal appearance than he.

The custom look which marks Hilton Clothes as apart from other ready-mades is due to their production being identical with that of fine custom clothes.

The style and fit and distinguished-looking appearance of Hilton Clothes are of powerful appeal to every discerning taste. It is almost unbelievable that such fine clothes as these can be sold at such remarkably low prices.

DID ANY TAILOR EVER GET YOUR GOAT?

There is only one excuse for not going into a good tailor shop and ordering all your clothes—suits or overcoats. You must have tried a tailor and failed to get a good fit.

You got the tailor's coat—but the tailor got your goat. It happens that way, once in a while.

If you ever failed to get the right fit and right style at a tailor shop—don't blame us. We are responsible only for our own output. WE assume all the responsibility. We guarantee every thing to be just as you want it, or you needn't take the clothes—it needn't cost you a cent.

We have every advantage as a tailoring firm. We have experienced help—the best designers and cutters—our own well lighted and ventilated workrooms—and carry as big a line of new goods-in-the-piece as many wholesale woolen houses.

Every coat made here is made after our exclusive pattern — "The-front-that-won't-break-down." This means the salvation of your coat against curling or wrinkles. The price for suit (or overcoat) at our shop is $15 to $25—depending on the goods you choose.

Don't let any ready-made clothier get your goat. Be a tailor-made man and let us do the tailoring. Every order means about $15 saving to you—a lot of money if the political orators can be believed.

Shadows of the Future

He holds a while a winning hand, his pulses leap and dance.
He feels the passing favor of the tickle god of Chance:
The burning baleful light of Greed that kindles in his eye
Shuts out the shadow on the wall—the ghost of By and By

The lying bubbles in the glass a promise seem to hold,
A vision of a future day—a day of fame and gold;
He looks upon them and believes—he squanders strength and youth,
While yonder on the empty wall the shadow tells the truth.

Health Means Beauty

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I

If you are fat, and would like to be reduced exactly as you would like to live in Africa

It has been said to make it the business of every woman to be as beautiful as she can, but I say "Where Mademoiselle, is there a woman who does not want to be beautiful?" Yet I venture to say that not one woman in a hundred has the slightest conception of what beauty really is.

One day I said to Mlle. Mosquito, the famous reducing and fitness instructor, "Mademoiselle, do you recommend physical fitness in women?"

"But yes," Mademoiselle replied, in her quaint way. "Why should any one admire a woman who snored her boots? We all would like to see a woman large—very large."

I thought of several of my friends who were carrying far too much weight, carrying themselves and their comforts and losing health in the process, and wondered if they would be happy in Africa.

Most women hate to be fat; there is no doubt of that.

The average woman will sacrifice her face to her figure.

She will grow wan and haggard with dieting and extreme exercise, but if the scales tell her each day that she has lost a few ounces she will not fret over her altered looks.

No woman is beautiful unless she is healthy.

It is not necessary to have brilliant pink cheeks, for many beautiful skins are of a neat, healthy pallor.

But it is necessary that your eyes be bright and that your hair be glossy and you are healthy.

Real Beauty

Of course, no woman with any desire for good looks ever considers intoxicants of any kind.

You eat, drink and preserve a good complexion. Fortunately, most women prefer the complexion to the drink.

Beauty of expression is deeper than beauty of feature or coloring.

You may have a good complexion and straight features, but if your mouth droops in peevish, bad-tempered lines, you will not be generally considered beautiful.

Beauty of expression lasts till old age, whereas coloring fades and features gradually change.

A straight nose is very desirable, there is no doubt about that, but if you are born with a tip-tilted one, all the fussing on earth won't change its curves.

What Men Admire

Healthful, sensible living will help a long way toward a good complexion.

Exercise will give you a good expression. If you are a wise woman you will do your best to gain both complexion and expression.

Men admire a straight carriage and good figure in a woman. We do not live in Africa, so it is not necessary to weigh over 200 pounds to gain admiration from the opposite sex.

But, don't wear yourself out in the effort to get thin.

Take a moderate amount of exercise and eat reasonably, and that is as much as it is wise or safe to do. Many women lose their health and years regain it in their mad pursuit of slimness.

To be beautiful you must be happy and you must be healthy. Don't forget that!

Work for Its Own Sake

Just think about that little easier when you are tempted to slight your work.

Of course, it is your right to expect to marry and pass up your job in a store or office for a permanent matrimonial situation, but if you are compelled to do that you will find your knowledge of how to do things will be a great help to you.

And there's a pleasure that is a pure rapture of delight in just doing good work for its own sake. Try it, by and by, and you will find that honest labor is its own reward. And it also pulls down the pay envelope. Don't forget that and don't forget your own self and the sake of other women who are the users of things whose work is a delight to the eye and a joy forever.

THE LATEST STYLES IN KNITTING AND CROCHETING

The "Sports" Sets—A Winter Novelty.

A skirt, cape and hood crocheted of yarn, matching in stitch and color—one of the jauntiest, "sportiest" effects imaginable. The skirt is a snug-fitting, seven gore model. The cape is shaped close at the shoulder, flaring sharply to about the knee and hanging full.

The hood is silk-lined and fits close at face and neck. Here is protection from the cold such as you never found before; comes with lightness and permitting freedom of movement. This set is a severe test of yarn quality. The yarn must be unusually elastic to keep such large pieces in shape. That is why it should, by all means, be made of Fleisher's Germantown Zephyr.

Full directions for making skirt and many other new and simple articles may be found in the new (eighth) edition of Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. THE LAUGHING SATYR

The Story of a Studio Murder Mystery, from "The Veil of Clay," by Meta Simmins

Copyright, in America, by London Daily Mail, 1910

26TH INSTALLMENT.

"AND what if it is all true and I don't deny it, Jess, that Mr. Stuyvesant was my friend, who, for reasons of his own, chose to be known by another name down in Greenwich—what has that to do with the lady whose name you have mentioned?"

Jess laughed bitterly.

"Yer can't git over that, can yer?" She turned and looked at him steadily with her green eyes. "I've broke wot was first in that blessed balloon—wor was 'is game? Jardine. 'E tried to save 'er—e'd 'ave done it, too, but e's dead, an' 'e can't save 'er now."

"You're Mad, Girl, Mad"

"You're mad, girl, utterly mad." And it did seem madness to the man sitting there. How could this girl know or suspect these things which she stated so coolly? How had she ever come to hear of Beatrice Charters—far less to lay a foul imputation to her charge.

"Oh, call me wot yer like," she said. "I daresay I am mad—I've 'ad cause ter make me mad. But I'm not so mad that I don't know truth. It's Beatrice Charters as done it—I'm not to be taken in by 'er pasty face an' 'er dyed 'air. I know. I 'ave my reasons."

Fleury swore beneath his breath.

"You've not stated one reason," he said.

"Oh, I don't intend ter tell yer all I know," she said, rising and looking down at him, her arms akimbo. "It's not because I know that she was at that 'ere flat with my Jim on the mornin' 'e came by 'is death—there alone with 'im, mind—no, it's not because o'that; it's not because she knew Jim or Stuvesant weeks an' weeks afore you ever set eyes on 'er. It's not because for 'er sake this 'ere Jardine put 'is 'ead in the noose and committed my Jim's body in 'is flat ter save 'er precious life; no, it's not because o'that that I know she did my Jim to death. But wot I know an' wot I know—that's my secret till the time comes, and you'll not know it, no, not if you were ter—"

She flung out her hand with a superb gesture towards the river. "No; not if it was ter save me from that would I speak till the time comes."

Fleury rose also.

"Look here, my girl," he said, in a low, stern voice, "I've just a word to say to you. If you so much as breathe a syllable of what you've said to me to another living soul it will be the worse for you. It's the index of the prison you'll be seeing, Jess, my girl, and not only you, but your excellent uncle, as well."

The girl gave a shrill, squealing laugh. "Oh, yer threaten me, do yer; threaten me with the police? That isn't funny, no, I don't think, and 'oo are you to threaten, Mr. Dominic Fleury?"

"What I Threaten, I Do"

"What I threaten I perform," he said. "Two can play at the informin' game," she said, wilfully misunderstanding him. "Yer—if I turned State's evidence first, eh, wot then, Mr. Fleury?"

There was such a depth of malicious meaning in her voice, such a look in her green eyes, that in spite of himself Fleury felt his face flush a dull red.

"Seems to me you must think a lot very easy o' bluff. D'yer think for a moment I don't know yer game—hasn't known it all along—not bringin' a fool like you dahn 'ere mesilf; 'avin' it with no one near—"

"What d'you mean?"

"I mean this," she threw her face out close to him so she had thrust it on to the dark, stuffy little parlor behind the shop, "that it's no go yer comin' threats over me, for I know wot the police like ter know—just wot we are. Mr. Dominic Fleury, an' as soon as I'd been at yer, I'd give yer to the office an' tell all I know—ehuh, that 'ere at Mrs. Van stratten's, for instance—an' 'oo has an glycered creepy big jewel 'ad there's his—every 'and worth the mine—during the last two years."

Dominic Fleury felt as if a searchlight had been turned on his very soul. He had fooled himself that no one had the slightest suspicion that he was possessed of a dual character, artist and gentleman in Watergate street and the studios of London and thief in the homes of the rich when he was their guest. Of course, Jess's uncle knew, for it was through him that the stolen jewels and plate were disposed of, but between thief and fence there was the inviolable secret that obtains between the man who fliches and the man who turns the loot into cash.

In the dreadful fear of exposure Fleury hurried to his house, found himself in his study and sat down to ponder the thing carefully.

Jess would not tell, she could not, for it would bring Scotland Yard to her own doors and send her old uncle to prison.

But what about Beatrice Charters? A woman he loved, and the only one that he had ever loved! That malicious red haired girl of the dives of London was after her—after her! It was the last blow for the murder of Stuvesant.

"I'll murder her before she does it," he clashed out aloud, as he brought his fist down upon the table. By heaven! what a terrible end to things."

Like the Day of Reckoning

His voice weakened. With a groan he put his head down between his hands. The climax seemed at hand and the day of reckoning about to dawn.

He remembered his first theft. Fresh from college, a devil-may-care young man, he had spent every cent of his patrimony with the fast London set.

Time came when he was overwhelmed with debt. He was a guest of an old, wealthy American family that had taken a country seat just out of London. Stuyvesant was also a guest, and in the days of the dregs of dissipation and with little prospect of getting more money from his mother, whose patience he had taxed to the limit.

Another of the guests had dropped his wallet. He picked it up. It was filled with money. He kept it. As he was slipping it into his own pocket Mr. Stuvesant tapped him on the shoulder. That was the beginning.

The next was a diamond necklace in another country house. It came so easily that he found himself abandoning an art form and leading the life luxurious life that he loved. But this required money, and gradually its tastes developed on to a big scale.

The problem of turning his stolen goods into money was easily solved. In his ramblings he came across Jacoby in the old Great House. He found the place a fence and Jacoby cautious and to be trusted. The old dealer in stolen goods would send Jewels to the Continent, or to America, where he had agents. They were sold far out of the reach of Scotland Yard jewelers. He had never for otherwise than secure.

Jess Was in the Secret

But now Jess was in on the secret of his crooked life. What if she knew that her lover was Stuyvesant, passing as one of the people of title and wealth, and that he had Stuvesant divided their spoils, that they had quarrelled over a division of loot in the studio of Hog Jardine while Jardine was in the apartment below, and while Beatrice Charters was in an adjoining room! What would come from this vengeful woman if she knew that in a fit of uncontrollable rage he had picked up the soft, and had hurled it at the heart of her absolute beauty.

There seemed to be no end to the complexities of the life of the man who tries to be both gentleman and crook. How Jardine came bounding upstairs to behold Beatrice Charters bending over the body of the dead man.

He did not even believe the building in the street. He paused for a few minutes in the vestibule, and then passed to Jardine's studio, where he found Jardine's body still warm.

His own pistol, the dreadful weapon with which he had killed Stuyvesant, the double of Stuyvesant, to the police and in the prospect of her being arrested and clothed with the crime drove him nearly frantic.

Time Might Heal the Wound

A drink of brandy and water steadied his nerves. He made himself comfortable in front of the fire and his thoughts returned to Beatrice. Perhaps after all he and Jessie Vane would find the wound in her heart. Jardine's death with the wrecking of McAndrew's discipline left him an open field for her favors, and her love. She was at least grateful to him for piecing her with Mr. Harrison when he found her in the hairdresser's shop, miserable, ill-clad and ashamed of the manner of her employment.

He would go to her. In her presence the terrible thoughts that his distressed mind would be satisfied. Perhaps he might find her more willing to listen to his suit. He slipped into his calling clothes and started for the Harrison mansion.

Richard Jardine lit a cigarette and strolled over to one of the big windows of the studio. The weather had been gray and wet for a week past; the rain had plastered the leaves on the trees in the square and pedestrians were hurrying from down with a rush. As she rose to PROFESSOR HUGH W. RAXSOM, of Harvard, was discussing, at a dinner in Cambridge, his experiences as a mining engineer—experience undergone in the cause of science.

"One thing that impressed me," he said, "was the huge bonfires made of large hard working mens. If the supplier bought less than four of the cords. And yet, the way people talk you'd think Jim Jackson's was a typical poor man's home.

"Jim, very wide and shaky, stopped at the butcher's one morning and said:

"'Give me a small piece of raw beef for my dog, please.'

"'What sort o' black eyes, Jim?' asked the butcher, curiously.

"'Oh, the usual sort,' Jim answered. 'They all look alike to me.'"

O! Come away to the fields, the sky and the sea,
The river lingering slow
Through the rustle and whisper of reeds
under wide-spreading trees.
Where the sunshiny meadows blow

Come away, and well live in a moment just this
As a butterfly over the flower,
In the moments that broods when the sun is at noon
Letting loose the blue of an hour.

Come. We'll live in that hour for a day, for a year,
On the dragonfly's wing we'll ride!
And you will forget, remember—Oromish and fear
What I show you the secret I hide.

Come, your magic that's lasted down for all days of the week
To the spell of the bright and the wild
Shall again to my calling, listen, and answering, speak.
Healing turmoil and care be still.

Quick! Come away! She is calling us again!
Your magic that's lasted down for all days of the week

Healing turmoil and care be still.

Oh, Those Wiggleshaws!

A SHORT STORY

"I HAVE only a minute to stay, Mrs. Wagstaff, so I won't sit down," said Mrs. Chadwick, hurriedly. "I just ran over to tell you that the Wigglesshaws are moving into the house next to me. I'm sorry I've been prying, but that's simply reliable as averted. Oh, those Wiggleshaws!"

"Why, I always supposed they were quite people," replied Mrs. Wagstaff. "She seem to have a good reputation in the neighborhood."

"Yes, you may pay their bills and wear good clothes, and I don't suppose they ever took more liquored by the Grand Duke, but couple may have a good reputation in a general way and still be quite famous eyesores, and I just feel it in my bones they are Wiggleshaws and I won't associate with them. I'm not a person to put on airs—some women. She has a way of looking at you that makes you feel that you've been misspent. She belongs to no clubs and, awhile ago I was appointed by the president to prepare a paper on the New foundland fisheries and I think I'll do it.

"I think it was a silly subject to begin with, but I've noticed all my life that women never would make any time pay unless they took on a subject in touch of International importance. Well, I don't know as I ever thought the Newfoundland fisheries than just know about pimpering in Cuban Colonies, but one will not be overwhelmed at home, and I spent the next two weeks reading them."

The Test

"So, I read about fisheries until my head ached and when I went to sleep at night I dreamed I was a codfish or a herring or a goldfish swimming around in a glass bowl. I don't believe Dan Shakespeare worked any harder writing his Twelfth Night than I worked getting up that paper on the Newfoundland fisheries, and when I got done I was sorry to read it. I felt as though I had accomplished something worth while.

"Well, all the time I was reading that Mrs. Wigglesshaw sat opposite glaring at me in a baby way and making notes in a book, and the fourteenth in court when I got done and the others were complimenting me Mrs. Wigglesshaw stood up and said that while she was sorry to criticise a paper prepared by a member of the club, she felt it her duty to remark that my article was one tissue of misstatements. It is needless to add that abominable woman, that Mrs. Chadwick has derived her information about the fisheries from encyclopedia that are not half so reliable as the publishers of two many encyclopedias depend upon the cheap encyclopedias. We have in our library both, and I set that card down. It comprised many volumes, all bound in boards, and beautifully illustrated.

Mrs. Wiggleshaw's Choice

"The consequence it gives to a paper to read and publish as it is edited by Vice-President Sherman and President Hadley and other illustrious men, who would not permit erroneous statements to appear in its pages. I have held up on the New foundland fisheries in this splendid work, she would say, and I am sorry to say that my cautious course is alowed.

"I am not a woman to be imposed upon, Mrs. Wagstaff, and I stood up and said that I'd rather get my information from an encyclopedia that is paid for than look for facts in a showy, gingerbread set of books bought on the installment plan and the agent coming to the door every week and making a nuisance of himself.

"Then Mrs. Wigglesshaw said she'd rather lose money on a set of instructive books edited by such men as Vice-President Sherman and President Hadley than to be in debt for a richly illustrated volume that kept the whole neighborhood on edge, and I replied that I'd rather be in debt a little on one house to another and have a clear conscience to avoid putting the real, and that the present installment and enclosed the money he adjourned.

"So now you know what sort of woman Mrs. Wigglesshaw is and you can imagine how I like having to see her to the next house.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINE TO SHIFT THE TRADE OF TEXAS TO BOSTON

The members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce hope to see by operation as soon as possible the proposed direct steamship line between Boston and some Gulf port in Texas which has been emphatically approved by the Chamber in formal resolution. Boston merchants are enthusiastic over the idea and urge speedy promotion of the transportation facilities to the South thus offered.

The Chamber of Commerce yesterday adopted a resolution offered by Albert S. Duncan, chairman of its transportation committee, commending the enterprise and calling for active work in its behalf.

Galveston is mentioned as the probable Gulf terminus of the proposed steamship line. A Boston-Galveston water line would give as low a freight rate to the Texas territory as to cities 500 miles nearer to it.

Cotton goods, hardware, provisions, boots and shoes, rubbers, drugs and other manufactures are heavy items in the northbound tonnage of millions of dollars annually. These are very heavy items for the Texas markets and would be carried by the new line. St. Louis and other cities have been actively trying to get these items of freight for the succeeding business territory, but Boston is nearer the Texas territory than any of them.

Report of Mr. Rantoul.

The extent of the interest shown in a report issued by the Chamber of Commerce to its members, who recently visited Texas, is made certain by the following figures, one of which is the interesting report is in part as follows:

Texas covers an area of 265,780 square miles. It is the largest State in the union. Its growth in population has kept pace with its wealth. It has varied and rich resources, and the present development is but a small part of the magnitude that the great diversity of its products promises.

This possibility is the cause of present activity, which time is rapidly showing and to which the future growth and development will be due. While the census of 1910 has not been published, authorities are inclined to the belief that the present population exceeds 4,000,000, and that the census of 1910 will show a gain of a proportionate increase over the other Southern States, but slightly over 20 per cent. The population for the present year, in addition to the natural increase, as a drag on the rapid development of its resources, has found a remedy with a great field of energy and enterprise, building and improving with unprecedented little outside assistance, either financially or otherwise.

Impressed by Prosperity.

"This population is not distributed equally over the entire area, but between 85 and 90 per cent of it is found east of the 100th meridian, in the Mississippi valley and south through new Arkansas in a direct line to the Gulf coast. It is in this area and located in that part of it which is the most favorable for the production of the staple products of the State, the native white element predominates, and the great diversity of the products of agriculture is the strongest confirmation of this fact. It is apparent that Texas is destined to be the greatest cotton State of the union, and that she has settled that destinative fact for herself as the New England section has for the northern section.

"The wide market which Texas has for its products, and in which it competes on equal terms with the world, is the strongest factor in determining the future growth of the State. The great diversity of the products of agriculture, and the fact that the State is the natural market for the products of the factories of the world, are

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, OCTOBER 28, 1910.

To Preserve a Government by the Consent of the Governed, the Boston American Advocates:

First—Direct nominations, that the people may select such public servants as they deem worthy;
Second—The recall, that the people may dismiss such public servants as have proved unworthy;
Third—The initiative, that the people may compel action upon such legislation as they deem necessary;
Fourth—The referendum, that the people may accept or reject legislation as they deem desirable;
Fifth—A Corrupt Practices act, that will limit election expenses to legitimate purposes and make men, and not money, the deciding force in American politics;
Sixth—Public ownership of public utilities, that the values created by the people shall belong to the people, and a referendum upon every public franchise, that no public servant shall barter the people's property for his private gain;
Seventh—The election of Senators by the people, and of Judges for short terms, that no branch of government shall feel itself too far above the people or too long removed from the people.

This platform, from time to time, has appeared at the top of the editorial page of the Hearst newspapers.

These principles are the chief component parts of the new political doctrine of progress.

Every man who is opposed to the present system of machine domination and boss rule is in favor of this platform.

Every man who hopes to see, in the near future, the dawn of better days in politics is an advocate of these principles.

Every thinking man, be he Republican or Democrat, must admit that here is a demand for legislation which would be most effective in behalf of popular interests.

Every thinking man who is honest with himself and is not blinded by partisanship must join with the party which adopts these principles.

Last year they were the important features of the platform of the Massachusetts Democrats. This year they hold the same position in the Democratic platform.

They are surrounded by other issues, but they stand out in the light of first importance.

Eugene N. Foss and Thomas F. Cassidy, Democratic candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, are earnestly and ably advocating this platform which the Boston American believes is necessary to preserve a government by the consent of the governed.

For that reason, we submit, they are entitled to the support and the vote of every man who would hasten the departure of government for the benefit of the special interests as represented by Senator Lodge and Governor Draper.

Racing That Is Worthy of Human Beings

Flights Through the Clouds and Above the Clouds—Great Crowds, No Gambling

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal-Examiner

There is a great racetrack on Long Island, near New York City.

A few months ago this racetrack was an illegal, degrading, immoral gambling dive.

The worthless riffraff of a great city gathered there. Race horses out of date, useless for all practical purposes now, were employed simply as instruments of gambling—and they were brutally abused and broken down in their youth in the effort to win the stakes and the money bet.

Depraved women, dishonest boys and young men largely made up the crowds that gathered.

There the law was dishonored, thieves were manufactured—and a few so-called "gentlemen" got their sport at the expense of public decency.

What a change to-day—what a difference in the "racing"!

This former betting ring has become the starting point and the landing point of great air machines that fly through space.

Thousands upon thousands of automobiles and tens of thousands of eager sightseers on foot, in trolleys and in trains, crowd to the Belmont Park enclosure to watch the machines as they circle on the great "track" in the air above their heads.

On the north side of the old track is a long row of new buildings. Each building, or "hangar" (a French word, imported), is the stable, the earth residence, of one of the flying machines. Above this long row of "hangars" float the flags of different nations. Gathered there are the flying machines of France, England, Italy and other countries.

It is a glorious competition between the racers of the world, the inventive genius of the world.

The men risk their lives, not for some miserable betting enterprise, but in the noble task of making men free in space, in the noble battle for the conquest of the air.

There is no need of betting or gambling there. There is a higher interest than the mere making of money, a nobler excitement than the vile, degrading passion of the betting ring.

A man starts slowly from the earth with his gliding machine, rises into the air and vanishes from sight above the clouds thousands of feet up. Many of the machines are above together—an inspiring sight.

Prizes are won, large sums of money are paid to those who are victorious in these splendid competitions.

And this money does not go from the gambling dive of the racetrack to the dives of the city, as in old racetrack gambling days. The money is spent, not to encourage vice in a Tenderloin or to buy the degradation of human beings. The money won in this great racetrack of the air is spent developing better flying machines, adding to man's power, knowledge and freedom from the limitations of space.

Most heartily the citizens may congratulate and thank all of those interested in promoting this kind of legitimate, useful racing, where science and enthusiasm replace gambling, and where the spirit of the spectators is taken into the air, amid the clouds and sunshine above, not into the mud below.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES OF BOUNTY FOR BABIES? STUFF AND NONSENSE

By Winifred Black

AND so now they are going to pay a bounty on babies—so many dollars a baby—and the Government is to pay it, to encourage the family idea.

Sweet inspiration; so full of sentiment and poetry, and so practical, too!

Who on earth but a woman lecturer would ever think of such a scheme?

Why don't you carry your idea out a little further, Mme. Theorist, and get the rose that makes your simple porch a dream of Paradise to take an interest in this bounty plan?

It would bloom so much oftener and bear roses of such surpassing beauty if it once understood that it was to be paid so much for every bud that blossomed into perfect beauty under the silver moon of June.

Why don't you talk to the meadow lark about that bounty?

"Sweet, sweet; oh, isn't life sweet," he sings, the little brown and yellow fellow who sits up in the fence corner before the snow is fairly off the ground and tells us that Spring is coming.

"Sweet, sweet." How much better he'd sing if you paid him for it?

Tut, tut! What stuff and nonsense some of these theorists do talk.

Women hold babies in their arms because they love them and because they are sent to them, not because there's money in it or fame or honor or a high place among the people.

Nothing that's worth anything can be bought in the open market! How dare you assume that you or any one else can buy motherhood and give a prize to the woman who goes into the valley of the shadow of death and comes up smiling with the one song in her heart that makes the music in a woman's life?

Money? Why, you'll be offering so many dollars for so many kisses next; and some one will pay mothers for holding the hand of the boys they love and pulling them through when they're ill and loving them when they're wicked and forgiving them when they are wrong.

Money? How much will you give, Mme. Theorist, for a mother's heart? Look, here it is, warm and loving and tender. So much an ounce. What will you bid?

Why, look you, you poor creature of words and ideas, you poor, sad imitation of a real woman, the most ignorant washerwoman, who has held in her arms one little helpless child and loved it and suffered for it and gone through the agonies of death for its sweet sake, knows more about life in one moment than you with all your education can tell her in fifty years.

We don't want any bounties, we mothers with the little tykes clinging to our skirts. We don't need any.

And the sort of women who do want money for bringing children into the world, I wonder if we want any of that sort of children anywhere, at all?

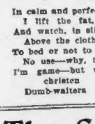
The Song of the Flat

By CHESTER FIRKINS

WHEN I renounced a house and attic,
Trees, grass and hope, and took a flat,
I'd read of all the woes emphatic
That must attend a fate like that.
I do not curse the babies' squalling;
On neighbor music I am mum.
What I rebel against is calling
Dumb-waiters "dumb."

Where close my stunted kitchen cowers
For comfort 'gainst the "parlor" door,
All sudden in the midnight hours
I hear a rumbling 'neath the floor;
A bumping, wild, seismic clamor
Drags me from dreams of sweet device.
While grim a voice falls like a hammer:
"Say!—here's yer ice!"

Again sweet peace, save where above me,
Some ceaseless phonographic whirr
Demands: "Oh, does she, does she love me,
Or do I only bother her?"
Such gentle sounds as part annoying;
Sleep covers me as soft as silk;—
Ten minutes—then, in accents buoying:
"Take off yer milk!"



In calm and perfect resignation
I lift the fat, white bottles out,
And watch, in silent contemplation,
Above the clothesline, dawn-light spout.
To bed or not to bed?—I falter—
No use—why, there, the butcher's come.
I'm game—but what blamed fool dared christen
Dumb-waiters "dumb."

The Susceptible Man

By WEX JONES

I DON'T know how it is with other people, confesses Theophilus J. Blinks, but personally I am extremely susceptible to anything I see in print or in picture. I never could pass one of those signs at a railway crossing, for instance, without stopping, looking and listening in the order commanded. Indeed, stopping to listen after having looked has almost caused me to be run down on several occasions, for it is no much easier to see a train than to hear it.

When I see a note in my newspaper that "REGISTER NOW," I cannot rest until I have obeyed the command, and if, on the way to the polls, I pass two posters, one saying: "Vote for Hasenbulger" and the second: "Vote for Flanelpluig," I always vote for the name in the last mental command.

On account of this fatal susceptibility I make it a practice to avoid reading ads, otherwise I should be buying everything advertised in a commanding manner. Unluckily, the other day I accidentally ran across an ad. which said:

We want put a
BUCKINGHAM BULLDOG
in your home.
SEND US FIFTY DOLLARS AT ONCE
and receive an ideal protector.

I hastened to obey, and sent the fifty. I will not tell you about the uncertain days I will not tell you about the uncertain days you have read such stories a thousand times. Suffice it to say that a thousand thanks of the most murderous the bunch, although in quite an affectionate appearance, acted in quite an affectionate way toward the members of our little family.

I left home in the morning more content than I had been for some time. With that dog in the house the women need have no fear of robbers or tramps. On my return I noticed some disconnection outside our cottage. Lined the connection outside our cottage. Lined up on the street outside our fence was almost the entire population of the village. Sticking out of every window in sight were the heads of icemen, grocery boys, milkmen, laundry drivers and others of assorted callings. I made my way through the crowd, and finding the Buckingham building which had been put in our home resting upon the front step, I led him to the yard and tied him up. Whereupon ensued an exodus the kennel. All the butchers' boys, from the house. All the rest, after passing grocers' boys and three a few remarks about an hour to address a few remarks to me, departed on their various ways.

"Oh, Theophilus," said Mrs. Blinks, "what awful dog."

"My pet," said I, "explain yourself."

"He let every one in, but wouldn't let any one out," sobbed Mrs. Blinks.

"Intelligence of a high order, my love. The animal thought they might be taking away some of our property."

"But why," I continued, with a touch of sarcasm, "why didn't you let them out at the back door. Not being a dachshund the dog couldn't be at both front and back doors at the same time."

"He ran around the house," answered Mrs. Blinks, "so fast that he seemed to pass both doors at the same time. And those dreadful men have eaten all your supper, and there's not a single bottle of beer left."

"This has gone beyond the limits of a joke," I declared.

"I knew that long ago," said Mrs. Blinks, "but a deserving family that needs a protector," I announced, "and I shall put a Buckingham bulldog in their home tomorrow morning."

For a long time after the passing of the B. B. I successfully avoided all advertisements. Perhaps I grew careless. Anyway I glanced at a sign outside a store one day:

TAKE HOME A CUCKOO CLOCK.

That was all it said.

I took home a large-sized specimen of the breed and hung it up on the wall. For a day it kept excellent time, but not "cuckoo" ever came from its throat. The youngest Blinks was heartbroken. We had described in glowing language the lusty little bird would peep little head out and say cuckoo, and lo, little bird failed to live up to specifications. In wrath the youngest Blinks bit the clock a vigorous swat with a broomhandle. To our surprise, a melodious "cuckoo" fell upon our ravished ears.

After several minutes of cuckooing I wondered if it would ever stop.

"I expect," said Mrs. Blinks, "it is striking twelve, one, two and so on, all together."

"But it has already crew or crown or crowed about 473 times," said I.

As a matter of fact, the earnest timepiece was still cuckooing as it lit in the roadway on which I sent it with a magnificent forward pass.

I only hope the next ad. I see won't have a man pointing his finger at me like a gun and saying, "Put an elephant in your kitchen."
